After the meeting Premier Laval announced that he had called a meeti g of the council of ministers for 6 o'clock tonight and that he

Local gardeners who have much ground under cultivation are waging an uphill battle against the weeds. The great amount of rain which has fallen of late has prevented the gardeners from getting onto the ground to cultivate, and as a result the weeds are steadily forging ahead.

Those who frequent the Cathedral much have been interested in a nest of young squirrels which were recently born. The little fellows are now getting big enough to scamper about, and they play up among the limbs while the mother squirrel stretches herself along a limb and keeps a close eye on them.

Guests at the Weingartner-Richards wedding at the new Epworth church on Saturday evening had quite a gallery of spectators. Several hundred spectators were assembled outside the entrance to the church some of the time after the ceremony.

First view secured of the interior of the new Epworth Methodist Episcopal church on Saturday night, when the wedding ceremony took place, brought many exclamations of commendation. The new church is a magnificent structure and the auditorium is especially appealing.

Workmen are repairing the damage to the roof of a home at the corner of County Line street and Crawford avenue, where a large tree was blown over during a recent storm and damaged the roof.

Work was started this morning on the grading of Meyer avenue, preparatory to paving that thoroughfare. The steam shovel and trucks got away to a good start on the job this morning.

BURGLARS BREAK INTO ENON VALLEY STORE

Thieves who broke into the McNees & McRoberts Clover Farm store at Enon Valley early Sunday morning ransacked the establishment from one end to the other, making away with about $100 in a variety of merchandise and $6.64 from the cash register, but overlooked $700 in the safe.

County Detective H. Martin Lee, called to the general store Sunday following the discovery of the robbery by the store partners, J. H. McNees and H. D. Roberts, has started an investigation.

According to Lee the thieves gained entrance by cutting a panel in a rear door and unlocked the three-barrel lock on the door.

McNees said today that the merchandise stolen included 175 pounds of sugar, ladies' silk hosiery, canned milk, vegetables, pen knives, flashlights, cigarettes, cigars, neckwear, candy and men's shirts. The safe, containing $700, which was insured, was not touched.

McNees and Roberts were informed by a neighbor, H. E. Strohecker, that men had been observed with flashlights about the store in the early hours of Sunday. It is believed the robbery was perpetrated between 1:30 and three a. m. Sunday.

Harry Bender, 52, Of Toledo, Dies As Result Of Wound

Victim Of Bullet Of Burglar He Found In His Garage

William Bender, well known contractor of the Harbor road, has been called to Toledo, O., by the death of his brother, Henry Bender, 52, who was shot and killed by a burglar.

According to the story received here, Henry Bender had recently purchased a new car, which he had in a garage near his home. Several times last week a milkman reported that he had seen a man prowling about the Bender home.

Awakened By Dog

Mr. Bender had a large bulldog, which he brought into his kitchen believing that the burgler was intent on entering the house. On Thursday night the dog awakened

Republicans Win In Spain

Election Results In Landslide For Republican-Socialists Yesterday

ASSURES PRESENT GOVERNMENT STANDS

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MADRID, June 29.— A landslide for the Republican Socialist party of Spain seemed assured today on the basis of unofficial returns from the nation-wide general election held yesterday to elect delegates to the constitutional cortes.

On the basis of these returns the Republican Socialists, headed by Finance Minister Indalecio Prieto, appeared to have obtained majorities in about 40 of Spain's 50 provinces.

The Catalonian Separatists, under the leadership of Colonel Francisco Macia, stout advocate of a separate Catalonian republic, carried the four Catalonian provinces.

The Republican Socialists victory assures a continuance of the Republican form of government, but the seats of the present government leaders were still in doubt at noon today. President Nicete Alcala Zamora was reported to be making rapid gains against his Socialist alliance opponent at Jaen, but his election was not yet definitely assured.

Western Pennsylvania Leads In Number Of Fatal Accidents

(International News Service)

Pennsylvania's highways, crowded with motorists lured to the open road in quest of heat relief, were the scenes of numerous traffic crashes over the week-end. Western Pennsylvania was in the van in reporting fatalities and injuries with eight killed and 27 injured. Philadelphia reported three killed and nine injured while the central region reported only one killed and nine injured.

Serious Accident.

The most spectacular accident occurred near Monaca when a bus, piloted by a 17-year-old driver, and filled with youthful picnickers, crashed into a bridge abutment, killing one child and causing serious injuries to 18 other persons.

From the army that will be at work it is anticipated that the work of grading the grounds will be reduced to a minumum for each one and the result will be a smooth foundation for the landscape gardeners.

The plans are that everything will be in ship-shape for the dedication services on July 12.

Thousands of dollars in crop damage, more than 200 deaths, loss of many domestic animals, innumerable prostrations, an unprecedented number of severe cases of sunburn, that was the toll today as the nation's terrific heat wave entered its second week with little relief in sight.

Large Crowd Attends Battery B Reunion

Fitting tribute to the memory of those valient boys of 1861-65, who answered the call of their country and served in Battery B, First Pennsylvania Light Artillery, one of the famous and dependable military organizations of that great struggle, was paid on Saturday at Mt. Jackson on the occasion of the annual observance of Battery B Day and Reunion.

Several hundred descendants of the members of the famous organization now extinct and residents of the community and county participated in the event sponsored jointly by Earl W. Watt Post No. 638, American Legion and a citizen committee of the district.

It was one of the most successful events of the kind ever held, in spite of the fact that there were no longer any survivors of the famous battery present to add to the inspiration of the occasion.

(Special To The News)

SANTA MONICA, Cal., June 29.—Will you do me one favor? If you see or hear of anybody proposing my name for any political office will you maim said party and send me the bill. "Life" magazine and I had a lot of fun last time by running for office but am not going to try the same comedy twice. My friend on Colliers, George Creel, says that I am taking this running serious. George, that's the worst slam you ever took against my sense of humor. I certainly know that a comedian can only last till he either takes himself serious or his audience takes him serious and I don't want either to happen to me till I am dead (if then) so let's stop all this d—— foolishness right now.

I couldn't run anyhow because can't make up my mind which side to run on—"wet" or "dry." I don't know which side the most votes are on and, I can't straddle it for that's what all the rest of the candidates are doing.

Torrid Hand Of Old Sol Continues To Grip Pennsylvania

(International News Service)

Old Sol laid a torrid hand on sweltering Pennsylvania again today, beating his way into the skies with the promise, or threat, of "fair and warmer."

Homes and offices alike were depopulated as the blistering rays beat down on redhot pavements, parched wheatfields and shimmering highways. Rivers and creeks, normally swift-flowing streams, were reported stagnant.

Thousands of city dwellers, seeking relief from the searing fireballs tossed by the gods of heat, thronged beaches, mountains and picnic grounds over the week-end. At least five persons lost their lives by drowning, two in the eastern region and three in central Pennsylvania.

Central Pennsylvania reported high temperatures and a relatively high humidity over Sunday, the mercury hovering around 80. Philadelphia reported a high notch of 89 on Sunday and, with a 74 degrees mark at 8 o'clock this morning, indications were not lacking of another torrid session.

Western Pennsylvania likewise reported high temperatures, the mercury rising to 86 on Sunday and passing the 77 mark at 8 a. m. today.

American Round World Fliers On 2100 Mile Hop Over Sea

PLANE REPORTED IN GOOD CONDITION

Weather Reported Excellent For Success Of Long Leg Of Flight

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

TOKYO, June 29. — The American world fliers, Wiley Post and Harold F. Gatty, hopped off from Kharbarovsk, Siberia, at 10 a. m. Greenwich Meridian Time (6 a. m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time) for Nome, Alaska.

The start from Kharbarovsk, last scheduled landing place in the Orient for the fast-flying American globe girdlers, had been delayed for a full day, partly due to unfavorable weather over the dangerous Bering Sea, and partly due to the desire of the fliers to give a thorough check to their powerful motor which was reported showing some evidence of the long strain to which it has been put.

Straight Shot

The fliers expected to make practically a straight shot for Nome across the sea of Okotsk and the Bering Sea, instead of passing by way of Petropavlovsk, at the southern tip of the Kamchtka Peninsula. The straight flight cuts approximately 300 miles from their distance, and makes the Nome hop approximately 2,100 miles.

The fliers made the take-off immediately upon receipt of weather reports from the Japanese meteorological station indicating the

These Are Real "Warm" Stories

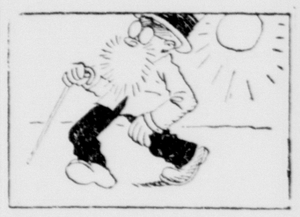

Many Humorous Incidents Crop Up Due To Terrific Heat

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 29.—Here are some heat waves:

After sprinkling an expansion ridge two feet high in a street pavement police gave up in despair and roped off the street. Four boys swimming in the suits nature gave them were arrested, an ice manufacturing machine set itself afire and burned up when the motor windings became overheated. Mrs. Elizabeth Sutherland and her husband got into a hot argument and a neighbor shot and slightly wounded Mrs. Sutherland. While the thermometer registered 103 degrees, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Ice of Fairmont, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Winters, Buffalo, N. Y., registered at a hotel in South Bend. Ice cream in Chicago sold at 29 cents a quart. So many persons sought relief in Lake Michigan that the submarine temperature of 52 degrees was raised 10 degrees by the warmth of human bodies at the congested beaches. Two chicks were hatched in the city dump at Davenport, Ia., from a crate of "bad" eggs.

There's a long road beckons with hills and dales, a highway that's paved with delight, a long lane of concrete, with fringes of trees, with every turn showing new sights. It's a picturesque highway and down at the end are friends who I left years ago, and hours pass quickly but miles not so fast and the car seems unusually slow. There's a highway that beckons and down at the end, those friends who are far far away, but whose faces remain in the hall of the mind, it's ninety today.

Round Becomes Head Of Rotary

Assumes Presidency For Year At Meeting At Noon Today

OTHER OFFICERS ALSO INSTALLED

LOUIS B. ROUND

Louis B. Round, district manager of the Pennsylvania Power company and prominent civic leader, assumed the presidency of the New Castle Rotary Club at noon today at the same time Retiring President T. W. McCullough stepped down from the office after serving the club untiringly for a year. Other officers chosen with Mr. Round in a recent election also commenced their work.

The simple installation ceremony featured by Mr. Rounds brief but optimistic inaugural message, followed the Rotarian's customary luncheon in The Castleton today. The new president made it well understood that service—and plenty of it—was to be expected from the members.

Other officers who commenced their duties today at noon, after retiring President McCullough and his regime surrendered their posts, were:

Vice president—William R. Bingham.

Secretary—Carl E. Paisley.

Treasurer—Frank L. Orth.

Directors—C. W. Herman Hess, Harold R. McCullough and Jacob F. Rentz.

Before adjourning the meeting, President Round, through Secretary Paisley, issued to the members what he termed "general order No. 1." Each member received an envelope in which was contained a letter from the new president, a complete list of the new committees and a sheet containing full instructions for all committee work.

Guests present today included Carl Davidson, City Manager Lowell Monroe, Elmer Conner, Frank Moore and Ed MacKasek of Ellwood City; Alliene W. Treadwell, of San Diego, and John Butler, and Elmer Ferguson of Sharon.

A short meeting of the new directors followed the regular meeting.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

shannock has also fallen, although the water Sunday was quite muddy, making swimming a little unpleasant.

It means you have missed an intensely interesting experience if you have never seen the Ohio river locks in operation. One of the Pa Newcs was on the Ohio yesterday and had the pleasure of going through U. S. locks No. 6 and 7, between Rochester and West Virginia. After seeing those, Pa Newc was very envious and wishes we had some locks through New Castle, on the Shenango.

It is a matter of about five minutes for a big steamer or freighter to pass through a lock. The lock chambers are opened and closed by the pushing of a lever by one man. They are marvelous pieces of mechanism and it is certainly a grand joke on Mother Nature, who would not have the river navigable if she had her way.

Young people in canoes follow the Ohio river steamers in much the same manner as sharks follow whalers. The canoe riders have a reason of their own for following the steamers—they like to ride in the ripples made by the huge paddle wheel at the rear of the river boat. The ripples give the canoe riders a thrill of some sort.

In the garden of Oscar Carlson, 135 Garfield avenue, there is what Pa Newc believes to be the first ripe tomato grown this year in New Castle by an amateur gardener. It is a splendid speciman of tomatohood and is absolutely ripe. This is quite unusual for this time of year, as tomatoes are rarely ripe until after July 4. Last year Mr. Carlson had ripe tomatoes July 1.

This morning commences another week of the school of home missions conducted by the Erie conference, at Camp East Brook, the Y. W. C. A. camp for girls. The camp has proven during the past week an ideal place for such a conference period and the girls have had great recreational and spiritual training, high above the rest of the world on the high camp knoll.

Saturday is the Fourth of July. It will be observed as a holiday at The News plant, and there will be no issue of The News on that date.

Shenango Pottery and Bessemer base ball teams in the county league staged an epochal game Saturday that will stand in local history for many years, when they played 19 innings in a 2-1 contest.

Asked whether the boat was going on eastern standard time or on daylight saving time, an Ohio river steamer crewman told Pa Newc that they were going on neither. "We are going on river time. One hour by standard time equals two hours by river time," he explained, smiling.

New Castle will exhibit no unusual joy in the fact that Ohio couples who are evading the Ohio law requiring notice of five days before securing a marriage license are coming across the state line to secure licenses here, where no notice is needed.

With the announcement that the State Highway Department is to look after maintenance of the streets in this city which are part of the state highway routes, quite a large number of the important streets of the city will be under state jurisdiction. The highway department has several that can be improved at once, insofar as local motorists are concerned: Wilmington avenue, East Washington street and several others.

The News is in receipt of a list of tetanous anti-toxin stations for every county in the state. Those who expect to go outside the county for their Fourth of July celebration might do well to secure the names of the tetanus antitoxin distributors in the vicinity in which they expect to visit. It might be the means of saving some person's life.

When Bart Richards and his new wife got into Mr. Richard's car at the Weingartner home, Saturday night, preparatory to starting on their honeymoon, the car refused to budge. After some little delay, it was discovered that some of Mr. Richards' "friends" at the wedding had jacked up the rear wheel so that it was not touching the ground and the wheels simply spun around without giving the car any momentum. After several minutes in which farewells were continuous as Mr. Richards and his bride sat in the car, some of the wedding party gave a hand and the car was pushed off the jack, and got under way.

tion in September, 1929, from Birmingham, Ala., where she had been serving in the same capacity in the Birmingham Y. W. C. A. She succeeded Miss Cora Ritchie in the work here.

Looking back on Miss Carey's administration one sees many improvements and additions to the local organization. Since coming to this city Miss Carey has supervised activities in securing a fine cement swimming pool on the campus of Camp East Brook, the Y. W. C. A. camp for girls. She has worked with the board in improving the committees and the committee work. The Green Room, an attractive dining room for club dinners and parties, was made from the business girls' lunchroom on the third floor of the building. The entire building has been redecorated. The membership of the association has increased to a large degree. Two of the most outstanding annual meetings have been held since Miss Carey's coming.

Although in poor health, Miss Carey has carried on her work excellently.

She has had many years of experience and training in this work and has been attached for a time with the national Y. W. C. A. board at New York City and at Springfield, Mass.

Miss Carey will spend the summer at Chautauqua resting. At present she has made no plans for further Y. W. C. A. work.

Bible Conference Closes With Overflow

Interdenominational Meet Closes With Great Success In Slippery Rock Church

Many persons were turned away from the closing sessions of the Western Pennsylvania Bible conference Sunday night in the First Presbyterian church of Slippery Rock.

Dr. R. E. Neighbors of Cleveland, nationally known Bible teacher and preacher, gave an unusually powerful message on "The Fourth Watch", in which present world conditions were set forth in the light of Christ's second advent.

At the afternoon session Dr. Neighbors graphically described the things which will transpire on the earth when Christ returns. "The world will never have universal righteous, social equity and peace until the Prince of Peace takes the reins of government," he declared.

The second message of the afternoon was given by Rev. F. H. Frampton, pastor of the Slippery Rock Methodist church, who delivered a strong and heart-searching message on "The Lamb of God."

Special music featured the service, with the Mackey-Smith sisters of New Cumberland, W. Va., and Mr. Burrows of Ellwood City leading.

The total attendance for the entire conference, which lasted thruout all last week, was about 5,000, which is about 1,000 in excess of last year's attendance.

In spite of the financial depression the offerings amounted to $100 more than last year.

It was announced that the conference accepted the kind invitation of the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church to hold its 1932 sessions again in the church.

Water Board Agrees To Channel Lines

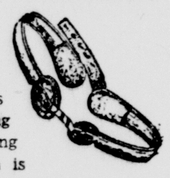

When council met in the city building today they received a communication from Charles E. Ryder, state water power resource board which stated the board had met June 22 and had agreed to the changes in the Shenango river lines here suggested by the city.

The letter said, however, that the board will require, in connection with the building of a West Washington street bridge the full width of the channel and the board would furnish the blueprints.

Weingartner-Richards Wedding Solemnized

BARTON E. RICHARDS

MRS. BARTON E. RICHARDS

One of the most elaborate of the formal weddings of the season was that which took place Saturday evening when Miss Elizabeth Anne Weingartner, daughter of Senator and Mrs. George T. Weingartner became the bride of Barton Erwin Richards, son of Mrs. Sarah Richards, this city.

The ceremony, brilliantly celebrated at 6:30 o'clock in the new Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church, located at the corner of Butler Avenue and East Washington Street, and the first affair to take place here, was one of the notable society events of the year, due to the prominence of the principals, and to the fact that the bride is one of New Castle's loveliest and most gifted girls.

The entire chancel of the church, richly and artistically decorated in a profusion of Madonna lillies, white peonies, and snapdragons being used in connection with the rare cibotium ferns, varigated claadiums, crotons and tropical plants arranged with skill by the florist, formed indeed a setting of decorative beauty. On either side were placed tall white standards filled with these select blooms, and the rail and grill work were hidden by greenery, outlined by graceful palms, through which, shown with golden radiance, the light of tall, white slender Cathedral candles in branching candelabra. The vestibule was also banked with flowers and plants, forming a background for the reception that followed.

To this lovely picture, music contributed its charm, and while the ushers were seating the guests, Mrs. J. M. Pyle, pianist and Mrs. Elsa Von Moltke Emery violinist and William Williams Jr., vocalist, local artists of distinction gave a program of music. They chose selections appropriate to the occasion, and also, performed during the reading of the nuptials. Those rendered were numbers which have never lost their power to please, speaking as they do, or love, life and happiness.

Serving as ushers were Robert Weingartner, brother of the bride, Robert Armstrong, James A. Rugh and Phillip G. Greer, and four hundred guests were escorted to their places to await the coming of the bride.

To the entrancing melody of the Lohengrin Wedding March, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, Senator George T. Weingartner, who gave her away in marriage: then came her sister, Miss Helen Weingartner, as maid of honor, who wore a gown of pink Mousseline DeSoie fashioned with full flowing skirt and short waist, with a wide sash, and accessories to match: the bride's attendants, Miss Anne Jenkins, her childhood playmate, Miss Ruth Lewis, her college chum, Mrs. Meryle Klinesmith of Grove City, her eldest sister, and Mrs. Walker Balentine, sister of the groom, all appeared in frocks of white embroidered organdie over satin slips of different pastel hues, patterned with full ankle length skirts, short waists and circular collars that reached to a lower neckline in the back, and wore sashes, and slippers to match. They all carried arm bouquets of varied colored summer flowers, each having a center "going-away" bouquet" made up of roses and orchids, which were later worn on the shoulders of the attendants.

Wearing a magnificent gown of white satin came the bride up the long aisle, a picture of loveliness, at once girlish and dignified. Her robe was made with long fitted sleeves, tight bodice, small V neck in back and in front, with full court train. Her veil of tulle, cascading from a wide band of the same material, was caught with a crescent of orange blossoms. She wore slippers and accessories to match, and her arm cluster of lillies of the valley, had the center "going-away-bouquet," which is a recent and novel idea, made up of gardenias.

The mother of the bride appeared in a gown of poudre blue chiffon and the mother of the groom wore black and white chiffon. Their shoulder bouquets were made up of roses and orchids.

Acting as flower pages were Helen Hazen, little six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hazen and Master Barton Balentine, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Walker Balentine.

Attorney William J. Caldwell, a close friend of the groom, served as best man.

When all of the bridal party were in place at the front, the impressive ring ceremony was read by Dr. Samuel L. Maxwell, pastor, preceding which William Williams, Jr., sang "Song of Songs" by Teschennecher.

Following the service, the swelling chords of the Mendelssohn Wedding Chorus filled the church with its triumphant melody and continued throughout the congratulatory period.

The Weingartner residence on the Butler Road, which was also beautifully decorated in much the same manner, was the setting for the wedding dinner which included the bridal party and members of the immediate families. Twelve were seated at the bridal table, which was prettily arranged in white, being centered with a four tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. At another table, arranged for ten guests, were seated the parents of the couple, and others while at smaller tables, the remaining guests were given their places.

Late in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Richards left for an extended motor trip, their destination being kept a secret. For traveling, the bride wore a smart silk suit of the new shade of blue, with hat, traveling bag, gloves and shoes to match, as well as her purse, and shoulder bouquet.

Upon their return, the couple will be at home to their many friends in their newly furnished residence at 1711 East Washington street.

The bride, a member of one of New Castle's leading families, occupies a distinct place in the social life of the city. She is a graduate of the local high school in the class of '24, and of Westminster College in '28: is a member of the Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority and since 1928 has been an instructress in the Benjamin Franklin Junior high school.

The groom is a member of the editorial force of The New Castle News and a leading member of the State legislature, as representative of the New Castle district.

Numerous pre-nuptial social affairs have been given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Richards, and they have received a magnificent collection of gifts testifying to the esteem and affection of which they are held.

REDUCE FOURTH OF JULY CASUALTIES

HIGHWAY accidents reach a high peak over the Fourth. A large part of our population celebrates on wheels. Motorists and pedestrians therefore should be doubly alert.

Know first aid and be ready to utilize your knowledge. Fireworks injuries should be treated by a physician if possible because of the danger of lockjaw.

Know the principles of prone pressure resuscitation. Drownings run second to automobile accidents in the list of July Fourth casualities.

Children should never be permitted to handle fireworks.

Guard against Fourth of July fires. Fireworks cause property damage as well as personal injuries and suffering.

Make doubly certain that safety first is the keynote of any Fourth program.

PERENNIAL PENSIONS

The United States government has just paid the last pension to the widows of the veterans of the War of 1812. One hundred and seventeen years after peace was declared, the last widow pensioned because of that campaign is dead.

That war placed few veterans and veterans' widows on the pension list, compared with the Civil and World Wars, yet the cost to the country's taxpayers was stupendous. Small pensions, multiplied many times, reach vast proportions over a period of more than a century.

But if the pension cost of the War of 1812 was to be reckoned with, what of the cost of the World War? Hundreds of millions have been appropriated for the relief of disabled veterans and their dependents, for bonuses, insurance and adjusted compensation. The cost this year alone will exceed a billion dollars.

Nor is the end here. There will be disabled veterans and dependents to be cared for until the last quarter of the present century. The adjusted compensation will be a drain upon the public coffers for years to come. And there is a movement afoot to place all World War veterans, widows and dependents upon a new and longer pension list.

The monetary cost of the World War to the United States is not to be counted in munitions.

GIVE THE PESSIMISTS A HOLIDAY

Former Senator George Wharton Pepper, who unexpectedly appeared as a substitute speaker at the meeting of the State Bar Association at Bedford Springs, seems to have aroused unusual enthusiasm by his address calling up the members of the organization to stand by the president in the attempt which he is making to restore confidence to a timid and distracted world. He said that courage, steadfastness and comprehension were the three qualities needed in the present situation. He called on his associates to support Mr. Hoover, who has exhibited genuine leadership through the trying period of economic unrest. The former senator from Pennsylvania warned his hearers that this was no time for petty politics.

Senator Pepper declared that there were two phases of the president's proposal one economic and the other psychological. He did not discuss the economic side on the ground that it was a matter for the experts and the financiers. But he happily illustrated the psychological aspect of the situation by saying that the president's action was similar to that of an officer whose troops are retreating in disorder. This officer meets them with drawn sword, restores their morale by an appeal for support and succeeds in making them face about and reassert their manhood. It would be difficult to state the case with more clarity. The question now is whether we shall advance or retreat. The optimists will be for going ahead and the pessimist will want to go backward. Fortunately the great mass of the people in this country are optimists. The pessimists who are in a pitiful minority, should be given a holiday. Ponder over these words from Mr. Pepper's eloquent speech:

> "This is indeed peacetime, but peace has emergencies quite as grave as those of war. In wartimes we trusted Foch, Haig and Pershing. We knew that we didn't know the facts that they knew, but we backed them up because we had faith to believe that their inside knowledge justified the strategy to which they resorted.
> "In this peace emergency we cannot know the inside facts, but we can show our steadfastness by backing up the president. We can afford to forget that we are Democrats or Republicans or progressives or reactionaries and remember only that we are Americans. We, ourselves, can proclaim a moratorium on individual opinions, surrender our own claims to superior wisdom and present to the world an unbroken front."

It is no exaggeration to say that a united stand on the part of the people of the United States at this time would be irresistible. For the moment conditions seem most promising. As we go on the temptation will be to play politics. It may consist of criticisms of this or that phase of the president's plan. Many now silent may later find ways of complaining. But there should be no party jealousies in a national crisis—indeed, an international situation and the safe position for those who desire a speedy return to normalcy is to stand behind the president in the courageous move he has made for world peace and happiness.

Talk Behind My Back
Call Me Names
But Don't Say You're Sorry for Me!

You can criticize me, you can abuse me, you can talk about me behind my back . . I wont' mind—go right ahead and have your fun.

You can say I need a haircut, you can say my ears are too big, you can say I'm fresh, you can say I'm not quite bright . . . I'll gulp hard and admit there may be something in what you say.

You can charge that I'm a poor judge of human nature, and I'll agree that I've made a bad msitake. I might even, if you catch me in a humble mood, confess that my sense of humor isn't at all that it ought to be.

But don't let me catch you feeling SORRY for me. That's the red flag to the bull, the raw meat to the hungry lion, the cat to the dog, the end of my tolerance and patience! I'll not have it, I'll blow up, I'll get mad. . . .That's where I draw the line and dare you to cross it. That's the chip on my shoulder. That's the last straw that breaks the humble beast of burden's back.

You can be sorry for puppy dogs. You can be sorry for the tender flowers that are blighted by the frost. But you can't be sorry for me! . . . When you're sorry for me you are feeling superior, and I can't stand that. Perhaps, in a weak moment, I'm sorry for myself and I make a shameful bid for your pity. But I don't really mean it. I don't want your pity, it's useless to me, it's harmful and weakening and poisonous and the last thing on earth that I want. Pay no attention to me and keep your pity for yourself.

If I'm in trouble I might want a little help—just a lift for a few miles on the road—just a scrap out of you experience—but that's all. No pity please. No business of feeling SORRY. . . . Give me a talking-to. Rake men over the hot coals. Say I'm an idiot. And remind me that you told me so. But remember!—I hope I've made it quite clear that I'll NOT have you feeling sorry.

When you feel sorry for another human being—and let him know it—you weaken him, you chip the granite from his soul, and you do the most terrible thing in the world to him. You take away his Self-Respect. You make a Leaning Post of yourself and you ruin the lives that lean on you. You think you're being a Big Strong Human Being who helps people—and you destroy them! Who wants to do that?

When the motorist enters the state of Georgia he is at once reminded that he has left the school of the Modernist and entered the old academy of the Colonist—he has entered the sacred precincts of the Original Thirteen.

It was Savannah that received John Wesley and it was there that he founded the first Sunday School. It was not on this account, perhaps, that Georgia has a Sunday Observance law. All of the Original Thirteen have their Blue Laws pretty much as they were made in the beginning. There have been mighty few changes in any of them. It is however very absurd how some of these laws are avoided. No mere drug stores may operate a soft drink fountain but any "quick and dirty" may serve any sort of a drink of a non-alcoholic nature, in the Southern Colonial States.

Georgia boasts of Sergeant Jasper, of Pulaski, of Button Gwinnett, of Eli Whitney and the Cotton Gin, of John Charles Fremont and even of Ward McAllister. Savannah was the port from which sailed the first steamship to cross the Atlantic and it was at a Savannah shipyard that the first iron vessel was built. Thackery wrote some pleasant words about Savannah.

Georgia, however, needs to use paint more than any other state in the Union. What a few train loads of paint would do for the good of Georgia!

Condemnation Of Country Aimed At Reckless Airmen

Low Flying At Ceremonies Attended By Crowds And At Other Large Gatherings Declared To Be Public Nuisance And Menace To Life As Well As Violation Of Law

General approval is given to the complaint, uttered by President Hoover, of the low flying by airplanes at the Harding memorial dedication. The spirit behind such piloting is a subject of condemnation in editorial discussion on the basis that these acts not only constitute a public nuisance, their motors drowning out the voice of speakers, but are a distinct menace to the lives of persons attending such gatherings.

"Planes overhead have added much to the pageantry of outdoor ceremonies and celebrations," says the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN, "but they are no longer a novelty, and fliers will readily agree to rules that will better protect assemblies and prevent annoyance at outdoor ceremonies." While The Bulletin believes that "the air traffic rules governing flying over cities and crowds of persons were made to guard citizens against the airplane itself and did not consider the element of annoyance in roaring propellers and motors, nor danger from objects that might be dropped," that paper finds logical objection to the annoyance.

Reviewing instances in its own city of similar violations of established rules, the CHARLESTON (W. VA.) DAILY MAIL states that "there has been great improvement and the offense has not recently been so apparent as formerly." It adds that "the danger comes when there are celebrations, when there is a showing off and when stunts are the order of the day, and when there is the usual laxity that follows having a good time." The ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS holds that, in the case of the Harding dedication, the President "calls attention to an aviation stunt that is in the category of public nuisances," recalling that "many a speaker has struggled through an address punctuated by the frequent interruptions of a zooming airplane."

"All parts of the country have witnessed similar actions at various times," declares the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE, charging that "the stunts complained of are plainly inspired by a mere desire to 'show off,' similar to that of the small boy who cannot be controlled before visitors." It advises that "the majority of pilots might aid in reforming the comparatively few offenders by treating them in that light."

"President Hoover and former President Coolidge were both handicapped in their addresses at the dedication," avers the WORCESTER EVENING GAZETTE, adding that Mr. Coolidge "is said to have been 'very much disturbed and bothered,'" and concluding: "Airplanes did it. They flew close over the speakers' stand. You could hear them over the radio; the din must have been terrific at Marion; it must have prevented many of the spectators from hearing all the speeches. There is a law prescribing altitudes at which aviators are supposed to keep above any city. But even with such laws, an aviator can be a nuisance. The drone of air motors is often disturbing to the peace. We do not permit automobiles to operate freely with their exhausts barking like machine guns. The mufflers detract somewhat from the power of an engine, also. There's no reason why aviators should not be made subject to a similar handicap."

"It would be unthinkable," argues the ROCKFORD MORNING STAR, "for a motorist to drive his car through police lines to the platform where the Chief Executive of the country was speaking, yet essentially the same bad taste and disregard of safety or dignity was committed by the planes that flew over Harding's tomb. There should be definite regulations governing the operation of aircraft over public gatherings, not only for reasons of safety, but for reasons of decency as, well. Airplanes are not such a novelty that people who go out to hear a President of the United States speak desire to have attention distracted by the antics of airmen."

"These airmen," contends the CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER, "should have known the President was present, and that, as the head of the government, he has the power to set the air cops after them. That Mr. Hoover did just that will please thousands of his less conspicuous fellow citizens who have been annoyed and frightened by similar discourteous and dangerous flying over large outdoor gatherings. It seems to have become a fad for some persons in airplanes to fly low whenever they see a crowd. The fact it is against both the law and the rules of safe flying does not deter them. One is glad the President was on hand at Marion to initiate a bit of timely law enforcement."

"Authorities everywhere should make an example of the few who are both a nuisance and a menace," asserts the INDIANAPOLIS STAR, with the conclusion as to the most recent example: "The public will regret the occurrence, although it may prove a blessing if it results in stricter regulation of these airplane nuisances. It is seldom that a solemn service in which the President participates is marred by overhead planes. There are few communities, however, which have not had similar experiences at gatherings of various kinds. Where crowds are gathered to see rather than to hear, the drone of the plane may not interfere with the program. The element of danger, however, should not be ignored."

Forecasting "greater protection for the public" as a result of the President's protest, the DALLAS JOURNAL, while condemning an "ill-timed intrusion," is inclined to believe that "it will prove no easy matter wholly to enforce any law prohibiting low flying and flights over large assemblages in the open," but feels that "the effort should be made." The Journal concludes: "There are State laws and city ordinances covering this offense even now, but all citizens can bear witness to the fact that they are often violated. A Federal law with strong teeth in it will have restraining effects. If a few outstanding examples should be made, airmen would give more thought to the public safety and to the proprieties."

Governor Pinchot Acts Upon All Of Bills Passed By Legislators

FLOOD OF BILLS GIVEN APPROVAL

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 29.—The 129th session of the Pennsylvania legislature today was officially closed and its actions became a matter for the record books. With disposal of all bills before him, Gov. Gifford Pinchot brought to and end the active functioning of the assembly.

Survey of the session today showed 695 bills passed by the legislature, thirteen of them being resolutions for constitutional amendments. Of the 691 bills sent to his desk, the governor approved 426 and vetoed 265. The resolutions for amendments to the constitution need no action by the governor.

Five hundred and four bills, it was shown, were acted upon by the executive since the assembly adjourned. The governor wound up consideration of the measures Saturday, approximately ten hours before the 30-day period allowed by law for gubernatorial action expired.

Evidence was taken before Judges Hildebrand and Chambers today on a petition for a guardian for Martin Schuster, who was recently committed to Dixmont hospital, following a report of a commission in lunacy.

During his lucid moments since being taken to the hospital, Schuster has expressed a wish to go back to his old home in Roumania. A friend who is about to leave for Roumania, has agreed to take him. The county is to advance the money which will be returned out of the estate of Schuster as soon as it can be collected. The Peoples Savings and Trust Company was appointed guardian.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS BATTERY BY REUNION

the morning with P. L. Kinney, commander of Earl W. Watt Post No. 638, American Legion, as master of ceremonies.

Parade formation took place in the vicinity of Watt Post Home in Mt. Jackson, including the colors armed escort and members of Watt Post in considerable numbers, the Bessemer High school band in charge of Joe Martin and the Mt. Jackson High School band in charge of William McCullough, the veterans of the civil war in cars and others and marched to Battery B Monument a short distance this side of Mt. Jackson on the New Castle-Mt. Jackson improved highway.

Memorial Service

Here a memorial service to the members of the battery took place, with prayer by Rev. Harrison Davidson of the Enon Valley Presbyterian church and a salute fired by a squad of members of Earl W. Watt Post, in charge of Carl Lago, vice-commander of the post and consisting of C. M. Kildoo, J. E. Scott, Tony Sgerlino, Charles Albright, William Zich and James Finlay.

Acting as escort to the parade group was A. A. Shoup, chief of police of Bessemer, and his officers, Martin Serjack and Frank Bucoskie, all mounted on motorcycles.

Following the return from the cemetery and monument, the entire group assembled at Watt Post Home, where a basket dinner was served by the ladies of the Post Auxiliary and of the community in the hall of the home to nearly three hundred persons.

Program of the afternoon was held in the auditorium of the Mt. Jackson Consolidated School and was very largely attended. P. L. Kinney, commander of Watt Post was in charge of the meeting, which started about 2:30 o'clock. It was preceded by a second parade from the Post Home to the school in which members of the post acted as escort to the veterans of the civil war, who were transported in automobiles.

Braham Speaks

The program of the afternoon was opened with prayer by Rev. Ross M. Haverfield of the Westfield Presbyterian church. Its features were the address by Attorney Walter W. Braham of New Castle, the orator of the day and the formal turning over to Watt Post through the termination of the community civic committee that had functioned in other years, of the duty of continuing the yearly celebrations on Battery B Day.

The address of Attorney Braham was a scholarly patriotic effort that enthused the audience, as he dealt with present day conditions and compared them with the trials and trumphs of those men, whose heroic activities of 1861-65 were being remembered.

Prof. C. F. Ball, assistant county superintendent of schools, on behalf of the community civic committee that had functioned in past years, in a few well chosen remarks, announced the termination of the activities of that committee and turned over its functions to Watt Post, which organization, he said, could be expected to carry on in an effective manner in the future.

P. L. Kinney, commander of the post, in accepting the duty placed on it, in behalf of Watt Post, stated that while the post was expected to carry on, that it would always be the purpose of the post to call upon the descendants of members of the battery to assist in carrying out this event, and that they and all the people of the district might feel assured that the post desired their full cooperation at all times and would welcome them in all activities connected with this annual undertaking. He also expressed the thanks of the post to the high school bands and all those who in any way contributed to the success of the occasion.

The program was concluded by the pronouncing of the benediction by Rev. Robert Hamill of the Mt. Jackson U. P. Church.

Homes and places of business of the district were decorated with Flags in observance of the occasion, while the Watt Post Home and auditorium of the School building were attractively decorated with the national colors through the efforts of this post.

The committees made up of members of Watt Post and residents of the community to whom credit is due for the success of the event are as follows:

Old Forts, Like Custer, Must Face 'Last Stand'

Former Bulwarks of Strength for Pioneers of Far West Are Trampled Underfoot by March of Progress

MRS. GEORGE A CUSTER. CHIEF SITTING BULL

Trampled underfoot by the inevitable march of progress, the old forts and military bases of the United States Army in the West are to be abandoned in the interest of economy—their days of usefulness over. Rich in historical lore, these old forts once stood as bulwarks of strength for bewildered pioneers, harassed and slaughtered by marauding Indians as they strove to carve a new empire in the West. One of the most tragic incidents connected with the old forts whose doom has been sounded was the massacre, one blistering day in 1876, of a detachment of troops under General George A. Custer, noted Civil War fighter, in the Battle of the Little Big Horn. Custer and all his men were slain, after a gallant "Last Stand," by Sioux and Santee Indians led by Chief Sitting Bull. Mrs. Custer, widow of the general, now residing in New York, has voiced a protest that the old forts, so closely linked with the progress of the nation, are to fall before the very element which they helped preserve.

McGuffey Clan Meets In Reunion Saturday

Under the spreading branches of an apple tree which first bore fruit in the earlier years of the past century, when William Holmes McGuffey, publisher and compiler of the famous "McGuffey" readers and near some immense willow trees about which he played as a youth, his descendants and descendants of his kin gathered Saturday afternoon and evening for the second annual reunion of the McGuffey association of Youngstown, Lawrence county and vicinity.

The scene of the reunion is the present home of William Brownlee near Coitsville, O., and just across the state line a short distance from New Bedford. It was the original home of the McGuffey clan in this section, having been the property of William McGuffey, whose wife was Ann McKitrick McGuffey, grandparents of William Holmes McGuffey, famous educational leader, who moved there about 1803 from Washington county, Pa. The first William McGuffey was a veteran of the Revolutionary war, who came to this country about 1769.

Those attending the reunion, numbering about a hundred, were inspired by the historical character of their surroundings, including the four corner or foundation stones of the original log house erected in 1803 and located just to the rear of the present home of the farm, and their actions in business session held at the reunion were for the purpose of perpetuating these historical landmarks and farm.

One of the suggestions brought out was that of interesting the many McGuffey clubs and associations of the country in securing in some manner, this farm and establishing it as a park and place to keep and perpetuate relics of the famed educator and members of his family. A resolution to that effect was introduced and approved and carried with it the further suggestion that it might be possible to interest the state of Ohio in purchasing the farm and establishing it as a state park.

Mrs. C. R. McComb of Covert road, vice-president of the local association, reported in regard to the condition of the graves and stone markers of the graves of William and Ann McKitrick McGuffey, originators of the McGuffey family in this section and the country, which are located in Deer Creek U. P. cemetery near New Bedford, and those of Alexander and Anna Holmes McGuffey, parents of the author, in Hopewell cemetery, New Bedford She reported in the first instance that the stones are broken and the cemetery in poor condition about the graves and recommended that a suitable stone with proper markings be erected there within the next year. The association voted to have a good stone erected, the association to provide funds over and above the allowance granted by the government to soldiers of any war. It was also voted to have the stones marking the graves of Alexander and Anna Holmes McGuffey in the Hopewell cemetery, which are in good shape except for the lettering, relettered.

Greetings of the Indiana descendants of the McGuffey family to the local association were extended through a letter from Serena Osthemier. Regrets of Alice McGuffey of New York, granddaughter of Alexander McGuffey, brother of William Holmes McGuffey, the author, who assisted in compiling the readers, and Katherine Stewart of New York, granddaughter of William Holmes McGuffey at being unable to be present, were also presented.

A resolution to be sent to the officials of the William Holmes McGuffey Memorial M. E. church at Scienceville, O., expressing the appreciation of the association in the honor conferred on their noted ancestor, was also approved.

The president and vice-president of the Akron, O., McGuffey club, arrived during the business session and addressed the gathering and urged that an effort be made to have the farm taken over in some manner to preserve it to future generations as a memorial to William Holmes McGuffey.

It was decided to hold a reunion next year at a time and a place to be determined upon by the executive committee consisting of the officers of the association. William Brownlee extended an invitation to hold it again at the same place.

Mrs. Matilda Reed of Youngstown, the president, presided at the business meeting. Mrs. J. V. Brewster of Mt. Jackson, secretary and treasurer, made reports concerning meeting and work done. B. C. Stanley of Covert road, who while not a descendant, was present and spoke in glowing terms concerning what the McGuffey readers had meant to him.

The election of officers resulted in the unanimous re-election of the officers serving during the past year. They are: President, Mrs. Matilda Reed, Youngstown, O.; vice-president, Mrs. C. R. McComb, Covert road; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. V. Brewster, Mr. Jackson; historian, Mrs. Harry Ernst, Youngstown, O.

Following the business meeting a basket dinner was enjoyed and this was followed during the evening with a program of music and other forms of entertainment by members of the group.

MORLEY ADVISES WRITERS

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 29—The finished work of an author is alsmost never what he really planned it to be, Christopher Morley, the novelist, told members of the Philobiblon Club here. Sometimes the theme of the work gains such control over the mental processes of the writer that he resorts to some "particular" manner. The author suggested that a book should be written setting down just what a great writer thinks about while he is writing a book as a work which would prove of great value to the younger school of writers.

(International News Service)

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, Bellefonte, Pa., June 29.—Pennsylvania's electric chair today claimed the life of Peter Spirellis, 38, the man who killed because of the "infatuation of love."

GRAVEYARD FOR CRAFT

(International News Service)

NORWALK, Conn., June 29.—Sheffield Island, off Norwalk harbor, has suddenly become a graveyard for craft that ply Long Island Sound. Watermen are curious about the new condition which has claimed two vessels this spring, one in a manner unaccounted for. The schooner W. B. Wilson of Boston went on a reef there on May 12 and was still there six weeks later. Then the tanker Tydol, Bayonne to Portland, Maine, squatted within one hundred yards of the schooner. The Wilson went aground during a storm, but the sea was calm when the tanker went into nine feet of water and was firmly lodged.

Over Hundred Tons Of Rain Per Acre Contained In Inch

One Hundred And Fifty-Two Tons Per Acre Fell Here Thursday And Friday

Few persons realize just how much an inch of rainfall means, in terms of water, the farmer seeing in it the ruin or salvation of his crops.

When an inch of rain falls the water that has been suspended in the air until precipitated on the earth weighs 113 tons to the acre, J. R. Haswell, extension agricultural engineer of Penn State College, states. It would require 22 trucks, each carrying a five-ton tank of water, to haul an inch of rain to an acre garden spot. By multiplying 113 on the number of acres on which rain has fallen, the total tonnage becomes almost incredible.

For instance, on Thursday and Friday of last week 1.35 inches of rain fell. This would be the equivalent of 152.55 tons of water per acre. On a hundred-acre farm the amount of water which fell was 15,255 tons.

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 29.—America's greatest golfers, and some of England's too, flocked into Toledo today. They came in quest of the glory that will go with the winning of the 1931 national open championship which will be played over the Inverness Country club course on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

They were more confident than in previous years because, for the first time in more than a decade, this is an open golf championship that will not be dominated by Bobby Jones.

Jones As Spectator

Jones will be here but merely as a spectator. He is due in town tomorrow. The very fact he is not competing has made this an "open" championship in the strictest sense of the world.

For once there is no favorite. Any one of a dozen of the most famous golfing stars may win and then again the honor may go to what may be termed a "rank outsider". The scoring, too, is expected to be better than in the tournaments in which Jones participated because Bobby's very presence used to add a few strokes to the games of his competitors.

Pick the Winner

"The experts" in trying to pick the winner, include the following in their form sheet:

1. Tommy Armour, who won so dramatically at Oakmont in 1927, the one year in the last decade that Jones failed to figure.
2. Gene Sarazen, who was victorious at Shokie eleven years ago, and who is now playing "hot" golf.
3. MacDonald Smith, the veteran scot, a great fighter who has come close several times.
4. Johnny Farrell, whose putter put the quietus on Jones in the sensational play-off at Olympia field in 1928.
5. Walter Hagen, who seems to be staging a "comeback".
6. Horton Smith, long overdue.
7. Harry Cooper, who is "on" his game.
8. W. H. ("Whiffy" Cox, who has been playing in spectacular form.
9. Al Espinosa, who led the country in the recently played qualifying rounds.
10. George Von Elm, the "business man golfer," a veteran of competitive play.

In addition there are a score or more top notch competitors and a small army of "dark horses". They all figure they have a chance, now that they do not have to hurdle the physchological factor of contending with the great Bobby Jones.

MELLON CONFERS WITH FRENCH ON WAR DEBT PLAN

had arranged to meet Secretary Mellon and Ambassador Edge again at 9:30 p. m.

Berlin, June 29.—The Italian Ambassador to Germany today formally presented to Chancellor Heinrich Brueining and Foreign Minister Curtius an invitation to visit Premier Benito Mussolini at Rome.

The German cabinet leaders accepted the invitation. The date of the visit will be fixed later, probably following the visit of the German cabinet leaders to Paris.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, June 29.—President Hoover's proposal of a year's war debt holiday—projected a week ago in the hope that it would be instantly accepted and prove a tonic for a depression-weary world—reaches the crisis stage this week.

Success or failure for the project is expected to be written in Paris during the next few days. Washington maintains confidence that the verdict will be success, although there is considerable trepidation concerning terms and conditions.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon resumes his conferences with the French today, endeavoring to persuade them that it is to their advantage, as well as to the world's to accept the original proposition laid down by President Hoover, that there be a complete cessation of all war debt payments as between governments for the period of a year.

Believe Solution Near

Secretary Mellon had a long telephone conversatioin with Washington today, following his conference with the French premier. Acting Secretary of State Castle was on the Washington end of the trans-Atlantic telephone. Afterward, Castle hurried to the White House to report to President Hoover.

The fact that a French cabinet meeting was called after the Mellon-Laval parley, and that Secretary Mellon is to see the Premier again following his meeting was regarded here as significant.

It was reported that Mellon had suggested a solution of the problem which Laval had to put up to his cabinet.

French Not Enthused.

Thus far, the French have displayed little enthusiasm for it. They are willing to forego only a portion of the reparations annuities due from Germany, and there is scant prospect that they can be budged from that position. Premier Laval has obtained parliamentary backing for resisting the Hoover idea.

Under the circumstances, it was regarded as likely today that the matter will be settled by Mr. Hoover's accepting the French terms, instead of vice versa. The French propose to compel Germany to raise the unconditional portion of her reparations, amounting to some $110,000,000 annually, and deposit the same in the Bank for International Settlements at Basle. The French do not want the Germans to get out of the habit of raising funds for reparations.

The Germans are reported ready to accept this, rather than to risk the whole scheme falling through. Apparently their theory is that a half measure of relief is better than no relief at all. International News Service dispatches from Berlin on Saturday reported the German government disposed to acquiesce in the French counter-plan.

Raskob Approves.

NEW YORK, June 29.—President Hoover's proposal for the war debt moratorium today was approved by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

"It is a very constructive proposal and would do a great deal to stabilize world conditions," said Raskob, following his return from a two months' tour in Europe.

Raskob said the plan would play no part in the 1932 political campaign and predicted that prohibition and the tariff would be the chief issues in the coming presidential campaign. He said prohibition was the more important.

Raskob said there was no feeling of hatred in Germany for any nation.

Dominions Accept

LONDON, June 29.—The British Dominion governments of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India have cordially welcomed the proposal by President Hoover for a moratorium on war debts and reparations payments, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald announced in the House of Commons today.

The Dominion governments have agreed, in principle, on the suspension of such payments, the prime minister said, subject to general acceptance of the American president's proposal by all the nations concerned.

In Critical Shape

Washington, June 29—Franco-American negotiations over President Hoover's proposal for a war debt holiday have reached a critical stage, it was indicated here today. Developments within the next 48 hours are expected to determine its fate.

"No agreement has been reached, as there are still several technical questions to be discussed," said acting secretary of State W. R. Castle, Jr., following a trans-Atlantic telephone conversation with secretary of the Treasury Mellon in Paris. "And," he added, significantly, " no proposals will be accepted that do not fall completely into the spirit and purpose of the president's offer."

City Agrees To Flash Signals

Will Not Oppose Request Of P. R. R. To Remove Crossing Watchman

Council met in the city building today and were advised by Superintendent H. T. Frushour, E. and A. division, P. R. R. system that the company proposes to install standard flash signals in place of a watchman at the crossing in Croton avenue.

The signals, of which there will be two, will flash red warning automatically upon approach and until the crossing is cleared. Trains will be held to a minimum of 10 miles an hour across Croton avenue.

Councilmen stated they were satisfied with the arrangement.

The company has applied to the public service commission for permission to substitute the lights for the watchman now on duty at the crossing.

Luther League Presents Program

Pastor And League From Cleveland Are Entertained At Banquet In Church Sunday

A most interesting event of Sunday afternoon and evening was the visit of the Luther league of the Bethlehem Lutheran church of Cleveland, with the pastor, Rev. J. A. Lundgren, with the Luther League of the Zion Lutheran church, Crawford avenue, of which church Rev. J. W. Eckman is pastor.

At six o'clock the thirty five visitors, with the local members, sat down to a most excellent banquet, which was in charge of Hilda Johnson and the mothers of the young folks.

Concluding the lengthy dinner the assemblage gathered in the auditorium of the church where a splendid musical program of solo and chorus numbers were presented by the visitors.

F. Myer, president of the visiting league, gave an address on "Service", which had some salient points for the young people to ponder over.

Rev. J. A. Lundgren, spoke most interestingly on "Three Little Words —I Will Try" and his points were sent home with a directness that touched each one.

Rev. J. W. Eckman, pastor of the host church, concluded the service with a few well chosen remarks, thanking the visitors for the delightful evening they had provided.

If Mr. Pinchot and Mr. Roosevelt go into cahoot, they will have to reach an agreement to occupy the White House on alternate days.—The Detroit Free Press,

GOLD PANS IN DEMAND

(International News Service)

BUTTE, Mont.—Revival of gold mining in Montana, due chiefly to the economic conditions, has brought about a startling increase in the sale of gold pans, according to local dealers. The old black pans, many of which had lain on shelves in local hardware stores for almost half a century, have suddenly become the objects of a widespread demand. Hundreds of otherwise unemployed men have taken to the hills this summer to pan gold from the streams which, in former years, yielded many a fortune.

Mystery "Killer" Threatens Life Of Pittsburgh Girl

Man Signing Self 'Triple-X' Mystery Murderer Sends Threat Letter

POLICE TAKE UP VIGILANT GUARD

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 29.—Five policewomen and four detectives were ordered out for a bit of sleuthing today with the receipt of a threat by the "Triple-X" mystery murder that he had chosen a Pittsburgh girl, between 18 and 25, as his next victim. He already claims four.

The threat was contained in a letter posted in Pittsburgh and received by Chief Inspector John John O'Brien in New York. O'Brien relayed the missive back to Pittsburgh.

It read:

"Ha! ha! in my own little efficient way I have removed another undesirable from this world. A Pittsburgh girl between 18 and 25 is next. Tell Pittsburgh police to watch for me."

A return address on the letter was fictitious.

Rev. Fr. Nee Is Transferred To Pittsburgh

Well Liked And Highly Respected Assistant At St. Mary's To Leave

REV. J. DUDLEY NEE

Rev. Fr. J. Dudley Nee, who has been an assistant to the pastor in St. Mary's parish, has been transferred from the local parish to St. Peter's parish, N. S. Pittsburgh, by the Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of the diocese of Pittsburgh, and is to assume his new duties at that place on July 8. The transfer is in the nature of an advancement for Father Nee, as St. Peter's parish is an older and much larger parish than St. Mary's parish of this city. His successor here will be Rev. Fr. Leo Watterson, who comes to the local parish from St. Peter's parish.

The fact that Father Nee is to leave the city will cause widespread regret not only among the members of St. Mary's parish, but among the people of the city in general, for the reason that during his stay here Father Nee has endeared himself to all who were so fortunate as to come in contact with him.

He has been very successful in his work in the local parish, having come here about the time of the completion and dedication of the present parish church, which is one of the finest in this section of the state.

Among his many activities as an assistant in the parish has been the directing of athletics among the young men of the parish and his success in this is indicated by a very active athletic association.

He has also been director of the activities of the Holy Name society in the Lawrence county parishes and in this he has also been most successful.

In going to St. Peter's parish, he becomes an assistant to Rev. Fr. F. F. O'Shea, who was pastor of St. Mary's parish for so many years and who was pastor here at the time that Rev. Nee was assigned to the local parish. His many friends wish him continued success in his new parish.

For BETTER Service and BETTER Lubrication — Take Your Car to the Dealer Who Sells That Car!

FAULTY BRAKES

Are Damaging Evidence . . . .

In court, BAD brakes are no excuse. They are a concrete proof of your carelessness. Play Safe! Drive your car in the confidence that you can meet any emergency with perfect brakes.

YOUR DEALER KNOWS "HIS" BRAKES!

The dealer who sells your make of car has had special instruction and training, as well as years of experience, covering the brakes on your particular car. He is thoroughly acquainted with the changes made by the factory from time to time, and knows just how and where to make the proper adjustments. In other words, he is a "specialist" in brakes on the car that he sells.

You owe it to yourself, your family and society to have your brakes tested at regular intervals. The dealer who sells your make of cars knows its brakes better than anyone else. Take your car to him for Service and Satisfaction.

LUBRICATION

Inexpert lubrication is dangerous to your car as well as your pocketbook. The neglect of a single spot in oiling or greasing means added wear and strain for that spot—expensive repairs later. Get added miles and added safety—take your car to the dealer who sells that car. He knows where every single spot is located and knows just what kind of oil or grease is needed.

Rev. R. T. Williams Given Farewell

Pastor Of First Congregational Church To Leave For Trip To Native Wales

The Sunday evening services in the First Congregational church were of particular significance Sunday evening in view of the fact that the pastor, Rev. Rees T. Williams, gave his farewell sermons before embarking on a visiting trip to Wales, where he will visit with his mother at Bangor, North Wales, after an absence of five years. He will also visit at the seaport town of Swansea, where a great number of his congregation were either born or have lived.

While on the trip Rev. Williams will preach in one of the churches of Swansea as a good will service between the people of New Castle and Swansea.

Reappoint Shaner To Temporary Job

Next List To Be Presented To Council May Have Four Names

William Shaner was renamed a policeman for a period of 10 days when councilmen met formally in City Hall. The recommendation was made by Mayor William Gillespie.

When council convened a list of eligibles for appointment was presented. It contained the names of William Shaner, Don Williams and Ross Guthrie. Mayor Gillespie recommended Shaner.

Councilman Genkinger asked if Shaner had not retired from the force. The city clerk advised him Shaner had been employed in 1922 and resigned in 1924 to take a railroad position.

"Now he comes in and takes precedence over present eligibles," said Councilman Reeves.

Councilman Burns offered a motion next to concur in the recommendation of the mayor.

"It does not make any difference to me. I do not know the other two eligibles and we will have to pass this up until we investigate them."

Burns offered another motion that the recommendation be laid on the table.

Councilman Genkinger suggested to colleagues that the mayor reappoint Shaner as a temporary position.

The recommendation was withdrawn and Shaner was named for 10 days more.

It is probable the next eligible list will contain four names, as the new civil service law which calls for the presentation of four names, becomes effective July 1.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Expulsion Threatens Sassy Lad

Myers Blames Home Training For Boy's Impudence

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve Univesity.

"Dear Dr. Myers: My son often is exceptionally impudent. I don't seem to be able to overcome this. I have just received word from his principal at school. She threatens for punishment to put him back a grade and next expel him from school.

"Last year he had a teacher who was, in my opinion, too old to teach, and who this year has retired. The principal asked me if my son was mentally and physically all right. She said he annoyed his teacher continually by tapping his feet and pencil, and made a noise in his throat. So I took him to my family physician. He said he was on the verge of St. Vitus dance. My little boy said he couldn't stop making the noises because she continuously reminded him of them. I finally took him out of school and sent him away for a change and rest.

"This fall he seemed better, so I sent him back to school. I went there to visit to hear how he was getting along. The teacher said he was impudent, but not to get the impression he was the worst child she had. Wish you could help me with this problem. Whipping doesn't seem to help."

Answer: I have a deal of sympathy with the boy, his teacher and you. All seem to be in need of help. I wish the teacher were more sympathetic and discreet. Of course, she has other children, too, you know.

The boy is very nervous and finds it hard to sit still and to control his tongue, and the more often he gets into trouble, the more practice he has in being impudent and in losing self-control.

You have not been very successful in managing the lad at home. He got his early training there in impudence and is merely practicing at school. Naturally you are embarrassed by the school's complaint and, being human like the rest of us, you come to the lad's defense and try to make the teacher feel the fault is mostly hers.

First have the boy examined by your physician. See that he has regular and ample hours of sleep—work for better habits in him at home.

Don't let him play too long at a time. Have him come in for quiet for about forty minutes before the evening meal. Sit down with Dad, with a pencil and paper, and write down all the specific ways you can think of to reduce commands and to remove unnecessary annoyances to the lad. Plan together one or two important habits you are going to work upon, not many. Overlook the rest of the time.

Covenant together to scold less, smile and joke more at home, and to praise more often when the boy does a few things well. When he talks back hold your tongue. Never talk back to him. Better say nothing about his talking back. Just keep calm and silent but don't budge nor change your command once it has been thoughfully given. Never let yourself get in an argument. Speak in a very low and quiet voice. In case he is not likely to obey a specific command calmly tell him what the penalty will be, and then don't lie. But be reasonable. Better not resort to physical punishment. Isolation or sitting in a chair doing nothing for half an hour by the clock, or forfeiture of some attractive privilege announced ahead, may be much better.

Star Lore

MYSTERIOUS STREAKS IN THE MOON'S CRUST

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

As first week of present July is full moon, it is a good time to observe with a glass the crater Tycho with its system of strange bright streaks radiating from it. Tycho is very near the moon's south pole. Many hundred distinct rays have been counted that cover nearly the entire southwest quadrant of the satellite and much of the southwest quadrant as well. These rays are from ten to twelve miles wide. They form a nimbus around the crater and then radiate outward from 100 to 500 miles over plains, craters, mountains and valleys and gradually disappear. There is as yet no satisfactory explanation for these strange rays or streaks.

LOOKING BACK IN NEW CASTLE

It's only a matter of some thirty years ago and that's not so very long ago, that horses and buggies were as common, perhaps a little more common than automobiles are at present. And that was in spite of the fact that New Castle of those days was not as large as the New Castle of the present time.

In those days there flourished on the Croton avenue side of the Neshannock Creek at Washington street, a livery stable, and it was but one of the many in the city at that time, known as the Riverside Livery. It was there that a majority of the country from east of the city and of course from some other directions, stabled their horses while in the city making their purchases.

Of course, the buggies had to be parked some place and as there was not room in the livery stable for both horses and the buggies, the buggies were parked along either side of Croton avenue, like the automobiles are parked everywhere down street today.

Cyrus L. Martin of North Jefferson street very kindly recalled conditions of those times, the other day, when he presented us with a picture from a newspaper published then, which showed the old livery stable and the buggies parked on both sides of the street as far as the eye could see. There are scores of buggies to be seen in the lineup along the street.

And it might be remarked that those scores of buggies meant plenty of business for all kinds of business houses of the city and especially the feed supply stores. But then that was thirty or more years ago.

Tomorrow: When farmland was plentiful inside the city limits.

Bible School Creates Interest

Annual Bible Study At Mid-Week Sessions Interests Congregation At Westfield

Rev. Ross M. Haverfield, pastor of the Westfield Presbyterian church announces with pleasure an unusual program for the Thursday evening session of the mid-week Bible Study class, which is held at 8:15 E. S. T.

The classes have been under way for several weeks and the interest increases with each session. The study groups are separated into four classes and worth while work is being done in each. The little folks are being trained in hand work and note book making, of Biblical work and the older groups are doing intensive studying of the Gospel.

Miss Margaret Dufford is in charge of the young people and Rev. R. M. Haverfield the adult groups.

Elder W. J. Duff will lead the devotional period Thursday evening and the assembly period, which follows the study half hour, will be unusually interesting inasmuch as Rev. R. H. Colliver, pastor of the Grace Memorial Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh, one of the largest congregations of colored people in that city will be the speaker. Rev. Colliver graduated this spring from Western Seminary and is a speaker of great oratorical ability as well as being a capable minister.

Rev. Colliver will be accompanied by a group of singers from his church and they will entertain with negro spirituals.

Although the Westfield church has supported missions for the Freedmen for many years, the congregation has never had a colored speaker and the members are looking forward with eagerness to the appearance of Rev. Colliver.

Have School For Municipal Caddies

Attend Sessions Twice A Week To Learn Finer Points Of Game

There are few places in the country where a better group of caddies is to be found than on the New Castle municipal course.

Twice a week the boys must attend school sessions, where the things they should know are taught them. As a result the boys know a lot about the game and some of them make very fine instructors for those just starting in to learn the game.

Visitors to the course from other cities have commented on the fine service being rendered by the caddies, which has been steadily improving of late.

Some of the boys shoot real golf themselves, too, a glance at the scores turned in last week show, several of the lads turning in scores under 90.

The total revocations to date since January 1 are 1,384 and the total suspensions for the year to date are 1,493.

Man Killed After Throwing Snake At His Father-In-Law

SOMERSET, Pa., June 29—Clarence Shawley, 26, of Bakersville, is dead, the result of a bullet wound through his head, said by police to have been inflicted by his father-in-law, John Slaceman. Police said Shawley had captured a snake yesterday and that he attempted to throw the reptile on Slaceman, while the latter was carrying a shotgun. Slaceman attempted to throw up his hands for protection against the snake and as he did so, the shotgun exploded. Police are inclined to believe the shooting was purely accidental.

MILLBURN

Milburn Grange met in regular bi-monthly session on Friday evening with a good attendance. An assistant to the lecturer was elected. Mrs. John Robinson will help in preparation of the program and take charge in the absence of the lecturer.

The time of meeting has been changed from every other Friday night to the second and fourth Friday nights of each month.

The Juvenile Grange, under the direction of Mrs. Charles Rudolph and Miss Clara Metzgar, met on Friday evening also.

James Patterson, Earl Miller, Frank Filer and "Bud" Anderson of Mercer have spent the past week camping on the Hartt farm.

James Hartt was able to get within about 40 feet of a doe at Melburn crossing this week. The animal seemed very tame.

On Thursday evening Mrs. Pakovich discovered a prowler in the celler of her home when she was returning to it from the filling station on the place. State police were summoned, but the man had made his escape.

The strawberry season is drawing to a close. Those who have late varieties will have a week more of good picking, but few more. The rains have made the crop abundant and of good size, and while prices have not been as high as last year, they have kept up very well, with a good demand for the fruit. Sour cherries are now ripe and are also abundant. The severe storms have done considerable damage to fruit trees, but unless more is done the fruit crop will still be heavy. The scarcity of fruit for the past two years makes this doubly a cause for rejoicing.

Union Cancels Big Parade Of Strikers Today

Sheriff Robert Cain, Marshals Strong Force Of Deputies To Halt Parade

PLANNED TO DEFY ORDER OF COURT

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 29—Officials of the National Miners Union today canceled the march of their members on the Wildwood mine of the Butler Consolidated Coal Company in violation of an injunction when Sheriff Robert Cain, of Allegheny County marshaled a force of deputies to resist the demonstration, scheduled for this afternoon.

Announcement of the cancellation was made by the Allegheny strike committee of the Union. The march may be attempted tomorrow following a demonstration and rally of members of the National Miners Union scheduled to be held on the northside of Pittsburgh, later to be followed by a "hunger march."

Just before the cancellation was announced Sheriff Cain issued the following statement:

"I hope there will be no parade. It is hard to conceive that these men will march in open defiance of a court order. If they do march there is nothing for me to do but to carry out the order of the court which has been served on me and which I must enforce as sheriff.

"The order says there shall be no picketing or parading and it is incumbent on me to enforce it. I will be on the scene with twelve regular deputies prepared to preserve peace and order and enforce the order of the court. We will have no special deputies with us."

In an opinion handed down by Judge Hildebrand this morning a new trial was granted in the case of Walter J. Waski against Fabian Pavlish. The case was one growing out of a levy made by Sheriff Frank Johnston on a farm in Neshannock township. There was a dispute over the ownership of live stock, poultry, farm machinery and household goods. At the trial of the case Waski was awarded a part of the personal property. In the opinion of the court the jury was deceived by some of the evidence, and for that reason a new trial is granted.

Trained Elephants Big Part Of Circus

If you judge a circus by its elephants then you are certain to form an excellent opinion of Hagenbeck-Wallace circus. This famous show, which comes here for afternoon and night exhibitions on Tuesday, July 7, has some of the best trained "bulls" in captivity.

Cheerful Gardner, master trainer, is the man responsible for the high intelligence of the Hagenbeck-Wallace elephants. Gardner knows how to instill education into these big beasts. The several Hagenbeck herds are clever and accomplished, fast steppers and willing workers.

Great interest has been manifested in the coming of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus. The sensation of two continents, "The Great Wilno", who is actually fired wtih violent velocity from the mouth of a massive cannon, is one of the outstanding features. The new spectacle, "The Golden Orient," Clyde Beatty and his lions and tigers, Famous Hanneford Family with Poodles; the Clarkonians, the Flying Shepherds and Neiss Troupe are additional features.

Louis B. Round today appeared before council and requested the city to appropriate $250 to Troop F. Under the law the city can appropriate money he pointed out and said that in the past the county has done so. He said the troop needed the money.

Councilman Genkinger said that in his opinion the city should aid the troop and Councilman Reeves opined it was worthy of the city's support.

Councilman Genkinger's motion to appropriate the $250 was seconded by Councilman Treser and the money was ordered paid to the troop.

Margaret Owery Says Farewell

Will Complete Work In Bible School Which Will Equip Her For A Missionary

In a most impressive service Miss Margaret Owery said farewell to the congregation of the Sampson Street Mission at the Sunday evening service.

Her sermon was on "Joshua" and her eloquence and pleasing manner of oratory was highly appreciated by the audience. Miss Owrey left today for Sunny Side, N. J., where she will teach in the school at the Children's Religious Home, until September, when she will go to Nyback, N. Y., to complete her education, which will fit her for missionary work.

Miss Owery has as her aim work in Africa and at the close of her religious training she will take a year's course in nursing, which will more completely equip her for her intended work.

Misses Sadie George and Mildred Lewis adde interest to the program Sunday evening by their rendition of several vocal numbers which were appropriately selected.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Walker and Robert Gorst of the "John 3:16 Mission" in Cleveland, Ohio, were special visitors and the Walkers who are the choir leaders at the mission there, sang several numbers.

Miss Owrey has the good wishes of the entire congregation and a host of friends in her new work.

Divorce Refused In Sheote Case

Court Of The Opinion That Mrs. Sheote's Desertion Not Wilful And Malicious

Holding that the evidence failed to show any malicious and wilful desertion, Judge Hildebrand this morning handed down an opinion refusing a divorce to Joseph Sheote from Josephine Sheote.

The couple were married in 1920 and went to housekeeping in Wampum, where they lived until 1928, when Mrs. Sheote left her husband. The evidence showed that after the desertion, Sheote had given her the household furniture and had also divided with her the proceeds of a sale of real estate.

The court holds that while there was no direct evidence that the separation was by agreement between the parties, subsequent events tended to show, that the desertion, was not such as the law contemplates as a sufficient grounds for divorce.

SWEDEN'S PLANE CARRIER

(International News Service)

GOTHENBURG, June 29.—The keel to Sweden's first airplane carrier will soon be laid down here. Estimated to cost about 12,000,000 kroner ($3,216,000) the new vessel will be equipped with two catapults and have room for eight planes which will be fueled from a 15-ton tank of gasoline. Scheduled to have a speed of 27.5 knots, the carrier will be fitted with six 15-centimeter guns, four 75-millimeter anti-aircraft guns, four heavy-bore machine guns and six torpedo tubes. The ship will be called "Gotland" after the Swedish island in the Baltic Sea by that name.

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

Central Press

NEW YORK, June 29.—Certain streets seem blessed with the aura of success. There are thoroughfares from which whole groups of small boys have gone out to fame and fortune.

There is 116th street, between Lenox and Seventh Avenues in Harlem—a block of weatherd brownstones, past which the 116th street crosstown surface car clatters all day long beneath the eyes of placid housewives at windows. It is like many another uptown thoroughfare.

In this block, some twenty years ago, lived five youngsters who looked—and acted—like most of the other kids of the neighborhood. Their names were Eddie Cantor, George Jessel, Walter Winchell, Joe Laurie, and Bert Hanlon.

THE GANG

It's funny, too, that the 116th street quintette destined to have their names splashed big on Broadway formed a group from the first.

They were pals. But they had no time for youthful capers. Jessel never owned a pair of skates in his life and didn't learn to swim until he was twenty. Mike Glynn, who now owns a string of 80 theatres, gave all of the gang a start at his Imperial Theatre, 116th street and Seventh avenue. Georgie's mother sold tickets in the box-office.

Eddie Cantor and Bert Hanlon played the Imperial so steadily that they had to change their names every week. Cantor ran out of monickers and, for a last ingenious effort, chose "Victor Hugo"....

Hanlon and Laurie are vaudeville headliners, Jessel has been star of many smash shows. Cantor is the long time Ziegfeld funnyman and Winchell is the columnist.

Gus Edwards, that seasoned connoisseur of fledgling dramatic talents, had every one of the five under his wing early in the game. "Hide your children, Gus Edwards is coming!"—his friends used to banter.

So much for 116th street. Except that Fannie Brice and her husband, Lou, grew up just around the corner!

STACCATO STUFF

Texas Guinan, selecting a $7 dress while wearing $170,000 worth of jewelry—in one of the less pretentious Fifth avenue shops....Tex is rehearsing her new show, "Too Hot for Paris," to be put on by Shubert ....She has to live in a hotel because she didn't count on being bounced out of France and leased her Greenwich Village apartment..

The workman on a Second avenue street excavation who watched, pitying, as did I, a tired and very hot old lady waiting for a car—and proffered her a seat, in a burst of gallant inspiration, atop a red box labeled "DANGER—EXPLOSIVES"....

A new taxi company is installing trick little advertisement projectors which click off dozens of ads against a small mirror screen.... Apartment rents are lower than they have been for years in New York—but not officially....They must be bartered down....I know a pent-house which used to rent for $1,800 a year and now brings $50 monthly, after having been vacant a year.

GLIMPSES

In the Broadway Childs restaurant where you can eat all you want for 60 cents....The man who ate five slices of pie and had to quite, when he had come in to murder the menu . . .. The old lady who paid for her "blue-sky" meal and ordered a cup of tea and three slices of toast, explaining that "she only wanted to try the scheme" . . . .

A chat with the genial, whiskered gentleman who presides over the long white telescope in 42d street, near Fifth avenue . . . For a nickel he sells peeps at the moon or the top of the Empire State Bldg . . . He confessed that three or four customers have shifted the aim of the glass slightly, pointing it at the rows of lighted windows in midtown hotels . . . Tch, tch!

Good Camp Healthful Experience

Parents Told To Avoid Dangers Of Child's Outing

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Discussion of the precautions which should be observed in summer camps suggests that parents should inquire into the enforcement of proper regulations in any camp before committing their children to its call. Such warnings may have a sinister ring to some. It may be well to state plainly, then, that a properly managed summer camp is a splendid and health giving experience for a child. However, there are certain dangers possible in the experience, and it is as well to face those frankly and do all that is possible to avoid them. Such as the only purpose of the articles on the subject this week.

Contact infection is a hazard wherever any considerable number of people are gathered together in as intimate association as obtains in camp life. We observe this constantly in army practice during the war. Whenever a new draft or new influx of men came in to camp, we could expect an outbreak of various contagious diseases. The more isolated the life of the individual before coming to camp, the more likely he was to such diseases. Thus farm boys were much more likely than city boys to come down with measles, mumps, scarlet fever, etc. The same thing is true of the early years of school life.

To some extent this is avoidable. Vaccination against smallpox, typhoid fever and diptheria should be enforced on all candidates for admission to camp. Every one of these diseases is distinctly preventable and any child who has not been so vaccinated is in danger in a camp. When camp authorities insist on such precautions they are entirely within their rights.

The camp offers a splendid opportunity to teach the elementary principles of emergency treatment for sprains, cuts burns, wounding and other hazards. There is also a chance to teach cleanliness of person and living quarters, disposal of waste, etc.

Proper medical supervision will select out those children unfitted for strenuous exercise and will impress on such individuals the amount of exertion they are capable of in after life.

The importance of sensible and comfortable clothing, from shoes on up, should be a point of the educational facilities of camp life.

Among the staple accessories of the medical chest should be antiseptics, dressings, bandages, splints, etc. Various kinds of preventive serums, such as tetanus antitoxin, diphtheria antitoxin, meningitis serum and antivenom for snake bite. Fuming nitric acid should be available for the bites of rodents and domestic animals.

Finally, there should be a telephone in camp for emergencies.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

C. G.: "While undergoing a physical examination some time ago, the doctor told me that I was in splendid physical condition with the exception of a tipped uterus. It does not give me any trouble, but I understand I could not become pregnant on that account. Could you suggest any form of exercise to correct this?"

Answer: Such conditions are very common and seldom, if ever, are the cause of any trouble. They do not prevent pregnancy and unless bound down with adhesions do not interfere with the normal pregnancy.

E. G. T.: "Will you please advise me if an operation is necessary for fistula?"

Answer: Operations on fistula are quite successful and usually imperative.

THEY'RE MILDER . . . and THEY TASTE BETTER

THE REAL HOOVER AGAIN IN EVIDENCE

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 29.—Folks who are taking an interest in the war debt moratorium proposal of President Hoover find an opportunity to study the real Herbert Hoover. It is Herbert Hoover of the Commerce Department days.

A few years ago, Mr. Hoover became Secretary of Commerce. The Department of Commerce became his hobby. National and international trade intrigued him, excited his imagination. He went to work.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover was scoffed at by a great many politicians. His ideas were wild, his plunges like landslides of unorganized pebbles, they said. They laughed at his plans for a Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce so vast and so efficient as to girdle man's land.

The Secretary of Commerce spent money. He was criticised for that. He demanded larger appropriations, he was put on the political rack for that He was talked about, written about, shoved about and probably cussed about, but worked on in placid serenity.

Today building craftsmen at Washington are putting the finishing elements on a new home for the Commerce Department, the largest government office building in the world. It was conceived by Herbert Hoover before he became President, planned by him and executed by him. And like the Department itself, it will stand as a monument to initiative unbridled by political harness.

Oh, everything wasn't so easy for Secretary of Commerce Hoover. But he had an idea. And he clung to t. protected it from political steamrollers and saw it blossom into one of the most worth-while governmental organizations on earth.

The other day President Hoover gave birth to another idea, the like of which might have been expected from him as Secretary of Commerce, a position less servile to politics than is the Presidency. A war debt moratorium! It is probably the first time the real Hoover has come to daylight since he entered the White House.

A great many of the President's friends have been puzzled and hurt by his actions as Chief Executive They expected to see the old self-confident, aggressive Hoover of Commerce Department days. They hadn't counted on what politics may do to a man.

By instinct, the President is no politician. His has been untrammeled freedom. Politics bother him. Since going into the White House he has tried to play the game as oldtimers play it And, like a hobbled horse, he has stumbled and hesitated.

But it would be difficult for even the most enthusiastic anti-Hooverite to see any man other than Hoover in the war debt holiday proposal. It came from Hoover himself and was given to the press by an unperturbed Chief Executive who stood with one hand in his pants pocket and read gently from a prepared statement the news that was to revive the hopes of nations.

It was a flash of that old brilliance so characteristic of Secretary Hoover when he was fighting for the Department of Commerce.

What more poignant tribute to the President's action could be asked for than the comment of Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, a leading Democrat, one of the few men in political life who always say what they think, and a legislator who has constantly criticised Mr. Hoover with bitter eloquence.

"It was a fine stroke and a gracious and constructive move upon the part of President Hoover," Senator Harrison said of the debt proposal. "It was the expression of an American idea. The suggestion should have been made, and the President is to be congratulated upon making it. No one knows what might have happened if the move had not been made."

There have been increasing evidences of independent thought and action on the part of Hoover. There was the Muscle Shoals veto, opposition to federal money for the Red Cross and frank aversion for the veterans loan measure. And now has come the debt moratorium.

It's safe, perhaps even facetious, to express the thought that the country will continue to see more and more of the genuine Mr. Hoover.

Chinese Laundrymen Call on Gobs

American gobs always like it when they sail into Chinese waters, for the proverbial Chinese laundrymen swarm around in droves to wash the sailors' "dress white" in the most approved manner. This picture shows a horde of Chinese sampans, loaded down with native laundrymen, tied up alongside the U. S. S. Houston, in Shanghai harbor, waiting for the zero hour of wash day. And then will they go over the top? And how!

Sea-Battered Nautilus Safe in Port

Transmitted by radio to New York, this photo shows Wilkins' Arctic submarine Nautilus as it was towed by a tug into Queenstown Harbor, Ireland, at the end of its turbulent 17-day crossing of the Atlantic. The craft was badly battered from the rough seas it encountered after its engines became disabled and it was towed by the U. S. S. Wyoming. It is now being repaired and put in trim for the next stage of its unique adventure.

Look Different—Act Alike

To settle once and for all a long-fought argument as to the comparative climbing abilities of the orthodox plane and the revolutionary autogyro, a novel test was held recently at Roosevelt Field, N. Y. The autogyro in the foreground, piloted by Andy J. Nielsen, and the Bird plane, piloted by William Marsalis, are shown taking off at the exact same angle after runs of equal distances. They were given a tied score by the judges. That ought to satisfy backers of both craft.

What's the Combination?

Secretary of State Henry Stimson may be familiar with all of the intricacies of matters of state, but it's evident from this photo that he'd like to know the combination of getting out of an U. S. Dog Hikes 2,000 Miles Home

Mary Moore, of Dorchester, Mass., is happy once more, and why not, for didn't her Eskimo chow, "Nigger," that disappeared during the American Legion convention held in Boston last October, suddenly reappear the other day? When "Nigger" came back to his mistress, he was wearing a collar with a St. Louis, Mont., marking. His paws were swollen and his nails worn out of sight, indicating that the dog had hiked more than 2,000 miles to get home.

Thirteen years after, a hero of the World War comes into his own! An impressive military ceremony took place at Fort Myer, Va., when Captain John E. He is now a member of the Washington, D. C., police force. Captain Scott is shown being decorated by Brig. Gen. Edgar T. Collins.

Unidentified Man Swept Over Falls

Niagara Falls Officials Seek To Recover Body Of Unidentified Victim

(International News Service)

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 29.—While authorities attempted to recover the body of an unidentified man swept over Horseshoe Falls, William "Red" Hill, Niagara Falls "dare devil," added new mystery to the man's death. Hill claimed his son, William, had found a part of an oar from the victim's green boat, which was caught in the swift current above the cataract, the oar showing it had been partly sawed through.

Hill said he believed the man had been a victim of enemies and lured into the boat with its crippled oars.

Authorities, however, who said the man stood up in his boat and waved his arms just before he was swept overboard early Sunday, believed he was returning from smuggling liquor or aliens to the American shore. They said a checkup showed no persons from this vicinity were missing.

The man was described as dark and heavy-set.

Girl Athlete Is Seriously Hurt In Plane Crash

Betty Robinson, 19, Olympic Sprint Star, And Cousin, Are Injured

PLANE CRASHES NEAR CHICAGO

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 29.—Betty Robinson, 19, Olympic sprint champion, was fighting for her life today as investigators probed the airplane accident that ended her athletic career.

Betty had gone up with her cousin, Wilson Palmer, 18, in an old plane which some said was a "[illegible]." It was a Waco No. 10 biplane with a prewar Curtiss motor. The craft had attained a height of 400 feet when the motor failed and it nose dived. Palmer had been granted his license only yesterday.

Miss Robinson, now a junior at Northwestern University majoring in physical education, suffered a fractured leg and arm and a probable skull fracture. Palmer also was seriously injured with a fractured leg and facial bones and internal hurts.

Betty started running four years ago and established a world's record of 12 seconds for the 100 meters dash to win the only women's Olympic championship for America in 1928.

The revolution deprived their father, Dr. Lazar Lachman, of his wealth and his 12 remaining children were scattered throughout Russia by Soviet order. Two years ago he and his wife decided to come to America to join their sons, but the Soviet government refused to permit them to leave. Dr. Lachman died recently and shortly afterwards his wife was given a passport. Photo shows her with her sons, following her arrival in San Francisco.

Railroad men of Mahoningtown were intensely interested in the giant Western Pacific engine which was parked for the night on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks, near the Cherry street station.

The huge engine, which ranks as one of the largest of the world, and of the malley type, is bound for Burmester, Utah. It pulled into Mahoningtown on the Erie and Ashtabula division at about nine o'clock last night and left on its long journey at about nine o'clock this morning.

Hundreds of local railroad men and other interested people from many miles distant formed an assemblage of interested spectators around the big engine. It left this morning for Homewood and thence to Chicago, Ill.

"Ma" Kennedy Is Reported Wedded

Mother Of Aimee McPherson, Is Reported On Honeymoon With Husband

AIMEE SURPRISED WHEN INFORMED

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore., June 29.—"Somewhere in Oregon" today were two honeymooners, Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy, mother of Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson, and her new husband, Rev. R. G. Hudson of New York.

Eluding newspaper men the couple was married at a secret ceremony shortly after midnight Sunday at Longview, Wash., by the Rev. J. G. Gay in the presence of only three witnesses.

News to Aimee.

LOS ANGELES, June 29.—Aimee Semple McPherson today exhibited great surprise when she learned of her mother's marriage.

"It certainly is all news to me," the dynamic evangelist declared. "I never heard of the Rev. Hudson, but I wish them well."

Officials at Angelus Temple likewise said they did not know the preacher and were unaware of the romance.

The vein of gold-bearing gravel, which lies about half a mile from the river, is two feet thick and lies at a depth of six feet.

Post Started Air Career Through Loss of An Eye

* * * * * * *

A Sliver of Steel That Cost Him Optic Was the Alpha of Wiley Post's Career in the World of Aviation. Third One-Eyed Aviator to Dare Atlantic.

WINNIE MAE HALL • WILEY POST • F. C. HALL

With the monetary compensation he received for the loss of an eye while working as a tool dresser in the Oklahoma oil fields, Wiley Post bought his first plane, a decrepit wartime Jenny. In this he learned to fly and went about the country barnstorming until given a job by F. C. Hall, oil magnate, as his private pilot. On several occasions Post was refused his license because of his one eye, but when the authorities saw that he could fly better than most men with full eyesight they made him a certified pilot. The plane in which Post and Harold Gatty are now flying around the world is owned by Mr. Hall, who is backing the flight, and is named for his daughter, Winnie Mae. Post and Gatty hope to circumnavigate the globe in ten days, less than half the record time of the Graf Zeppelin. It is an interesting fact that Post is the third one-eyed flier to dare the Atlantic. Captain Coli, lost with Nungesser, and Captain Hinchcliffe, who made an attempt with Elsie Mackay and was never heard of again, were the other two.

There are ten divisions of these projects and scoutcrafts, and scouts who qualify in each of the ten departments of the work, will be awarded the camp emblem. Emblem winners this year will try for the second year emblem next year: and so on up through third, fourth and fifth year work. A five-year emblem camper will have a broad education in camping.

There will prabobly be a get-together campfire tonight, and this new work will be explained to the campers by Director Norton. Everything is ready and all leaders are looking forward to a good season.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

Jim Bridger—1. Introduction

AMONG THE PIONEERS WHO OPENED THE ROCKY MOUNTAIN COUNTRY THE MOST STRIKING CHARACTER WAS JIM BRIDGER. BORN IN 1804, BRIDGER SPENT HIS EARLY BOYHOOD WORKING IN HIS FATHER'S TAVERN IN RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

BRIDGER NEVER LEARNED TO READ AND WRITE: INSTEAD OF BEING SENT TO SCHOOL, HE WAS APPRENTICED TO A BLACKSMITH. AS HE TOILED AT THE FORGE THE BOY DREAMED OF A LIFE OF EXCITING ADVENTURE IN THE FAR WEST.

IN 1822, AT THE AGE OF 18, HE QUIT HIS JOB AND WENT TO ST. LOUIS, THEN A ROUGH, STRAGGLING FRONTIER TOWN FULL OF AMERICAN TRAPPERS, SPANISH TRADERS, FRENCH "VOYAGEURS" AND INDIANS . . . . . .

HERE HE JOINED AN OUTFIT OF ASHLEY'S ROCKY MOUNTAIN FUR COMPANY THAT WAS ABOUT TO START ON A TRAPPING AND EXPLORING EXPEDITION IN THE DISTANT WILDS. (Copyright, 1931, by J. Carroll Mansfield)

Burleigh Grimes Goes To Pieces In First Inning and Dodgers Win

GIANTS DOWN REDS IN TWIN BILL

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 29.—Unless Professor Piccard, the man of science who holds the record for going up in the air, hurries up and tells a waiting world just what he discovered way up there, Burleigh Grimes is going to beat the scholarly gentleman to the punch.

The St. Louis Cardinals' great pitcher today stood shoulder to shoulder with the professor, for he had pierced the stratosphere for the second time in three days and quite a few of the experts were claiming Burleigh knew more about rarified air than he was willing to admit. Mr. Grimes' latest leap was brought about when the first six of the Brooklyn Robins to come to bat clouted singles and when the thing was finally settled Brooklyn had won the ball game 10 to 4.

Giants Win Two

The thoroughly declasse Cincy Reds took it on the nose twice from the New York Giants, 17 to 5 and 5 to 2. The double win boosted the New Yorkers to within less than two games of the league leading Cardinals and three games ahead of the faltering Chicago Cubs. Freddie Lindstrom got four hits for the Giants in the first game and four stolen bases by the New Yorkers highlighted the second clash.

The champion Athletics dropped Detroit twice 9 to 1 and 5 to 1, jumping into a two and one-half game ahead over the ambitious Washington Senators in the American league. Mahaffey and Walberg were the winning pitchers, Walberg marking his twelfth victory of the season.

Ruth Hits Homer

Babe Ruth registered his homer No. 17, possibly inspiring the Yankees to better things, for they came from behind in the ninth with five runs to hurdle the Cleveland Indians, 9 to 5.

Ed Brandt held the Chicago Cubs to seven hits and won for Boston, 9 to 1 in the opener. The night cap was called in the ninth with the score 2 to 2 because of Boston's Sunday sports law. Bob Smith held the Braves scoreless for seven innings in the vesper affair, an error by Hornsby on top of three singles permitting Boston to tic up the count in the eighth.

Tommy Thomas gave Washington only six hits as the White Sox of Chicago won 2 to 1, but Brown and Crowder were more effective than McKain in the nightcap, the Senators taking it 3 to 1.

The Browns of St. Louis advanced their winning string to eight games by taking a double-header from the Boston Ruddy Sox, Gray and Stiles hurled the opener for St. Louis, winning 5 to 4, while Herbert was the happy moundsman in the final, 5 to 4.

LINGER LIGHTS WIN

The Linger Light team handed the New Castle Dry Goods nine a 9-3 defeat in a mushball contest played on Thursday.

Kerr with a homer featured for the losers while Patterson also hit for the circuit for the winners.

The score by innings:

Dry Goods .....010 100 100—3
Linger Light .....000 102 303—9

Batteries: Dry Goods, Kerr and Anderson; Linger Lights, Thompson and Wilson.

Mushball League Managers To Meet

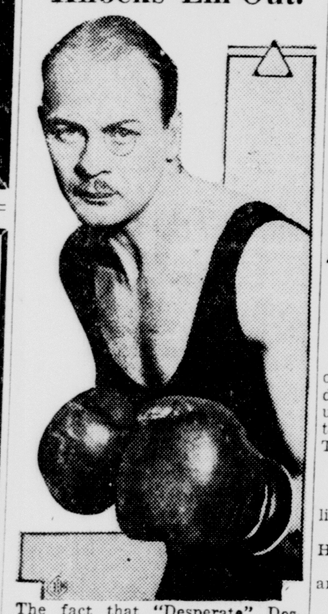

A very important meeting of the New Castle Mushball league will take place tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the "Y" with all managers, officials and umpires present. The end of the first-half of the season is nearing and there is considerable business to be transacted.

The recent Lockley-East Side Service dispute will come up tonight, and Umpire Hamilton, Commissioner Glitch, Managers Clark and Reed are asked to be present at 8:30 o'clock.

All contracts must be in by tonight. This is the deadline for signing of players. Each team will be allowed eighteen men on their lists. All disputes will be cleared up tonight.

We suppose the principal object of so many young men taking up law is that they expect it to be a great aid to their golf.—The Columbus Ohio State Journal.

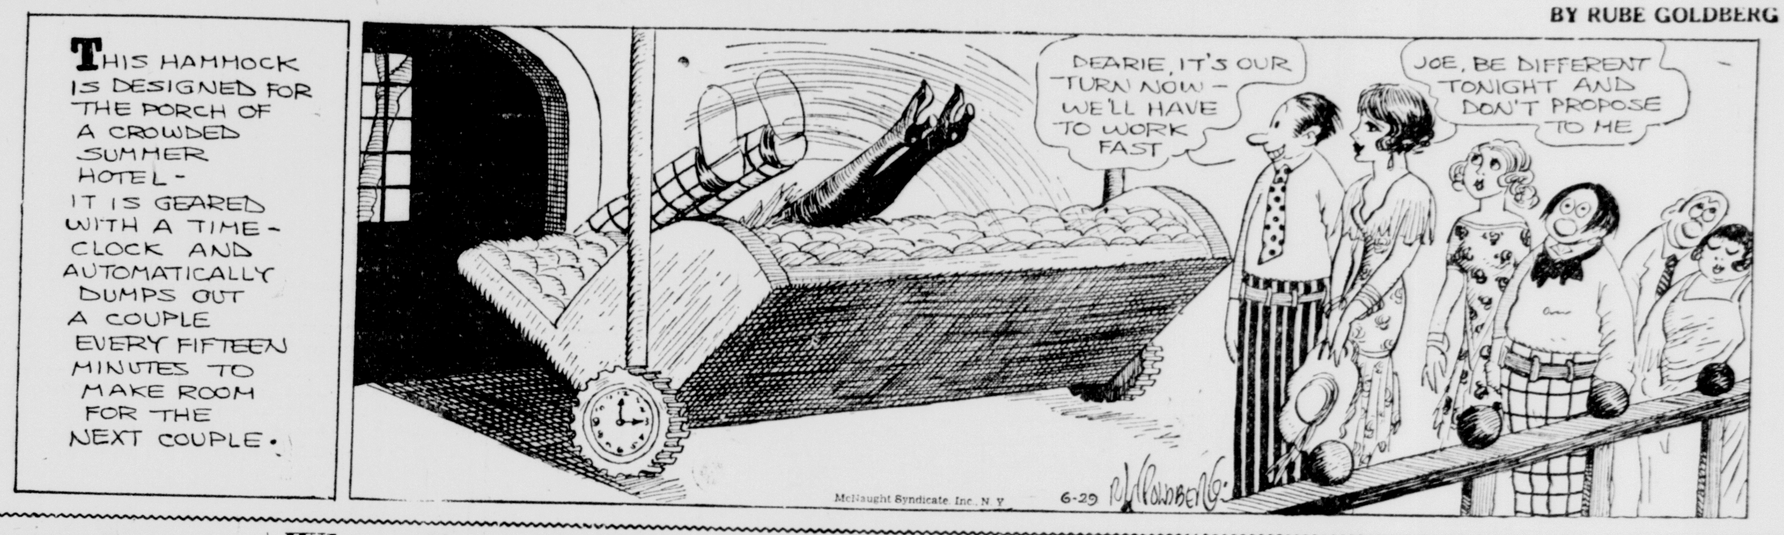

Knocks 'Em Out!

The fact that "Desperate" Desmond Jeans (above) sports a monocle when he enters the ring is enough to knock out the average fight fan; but, what's more important, he generally knocks out his opponent. Having won the English light heavyweight amateur championship after deserting a promising stage career for the squared circle, Jeans is now a professional battler in New York and has won four out of his five pro fights by knockouts.

One Of Longest Games In History Of County League Played Saturday

One of the longest games in the history of baseball in Lawrence county was enacted on Saturday afternoon at Bessemer when the Shenango Pottery nine defeated Bessemer, 2-1 in a 19 inning county league game which lasted three hours and a half.

After playing to a tie for four innings, Charley Scaglione, Shenango catcher, hit a homer to place his team in the lead. Bessemer crossed the rubber for one tally in the seventh inning to tie the count. From then until the nineteenth inning neither team could score.

In the nineteenth inning Lefty Maslyk hit a single and stole second. Mehalic pinch hitting for Smolnik hit a timely single scoring Maslyk. This ended one of the longest baseball games on record here. The Shenango Pottery team used their star hurler, W. Soho who recently set down the formidable Universal Sanitary team from first place. He pitched the entire 19 innings and was touched for six hits.

D. Nord was on the rubber for the Cement City representatives and he managed to stick out the entire 19 frames and yielded 12 blows. For the Shenango team the playing of Scaglione, Maslyk and Glasser coupled with the consistent pitching of W. Soho featured while N. Puromaki and W. Stanley divided honors for the Bessemer aggregation.

The Shenango team which has defeated everything that it has confronted lately, proved on Saturday that it is still in the first half race.

When Record seeks record in the track meet to be held in England, July 18, the intercollegiate champion hurdler will look something like this as he leaps toward the finish line—and victory. Gamber Gets Long Distance Drives Hitting Through

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer

NUMBER 36

Clarence Gamber, the longest driver of the professional golfers, seemingly does nothing out of the ordinary in drives of 300 yards.

The success of Gamber's long drives is his powerful wrist action and a well-timed swing.

The professional golfer goes in for a more conservative swing, that is to say, he hits with a speed of consistency that will place his drives. The pro hits for a distance and accuracy that controls the tee shot rather than extreme distance.

Gamber, of course, has always hit a long tee shot. He goes in for that sort of thing in a specialist manner. But for the balance of the professional field to change to distance would ruin their games.

Gamber starts the club back with the left hand. This hand and arm guides the club throughout. The right hand and wrist roll over on the shot at the point of contact.

While all this is going on he holds his head perfectly still and swings slow, speeding up the clubhead when he gets to within three-quarters of the swing.

You will note in the lower illustration the position of the club in comparison to the hands and arms. It is at this point that Gamber starts the power for his long drives.

The strength is concentrated down into the ball and in hitting he hits on through the shot for at least 18 inches.

Next: Balance.

Hofmaster Signs With Shenango Nine

It was announced this morning by Carm Sacco of the Shenango Pottery team that Hofmaster has signed a contract to play with the Shenango team in the Lawrence County league.

To date the Shenango team through the work of Soho, a pitcher and Charley Scaglone at catch has won five straight games.

HAPPENINGS IN WORLD OF SPORT

Londos-Steele Wrestle Today

Jim Londos, Recognized As Champion Will Defend Title In Brooklyn

WRESTLING NOW MAJOR SPORT

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 29.—Wrestling, which changed from a minor to a major sport throughout the country during the past winter, hits a new highwater mark at Yankee Stadium here tonight when Jim Londos, recognized as champion in New York and Pennsylvania, defends his title in a finish bout with Ray Steele, the corrugated Californian.

Between 40,000 and 50,000 mat addicts are expected to jam their way into the bronx ball orchard to witness the struggle.

If the attendance comes anywhere close to expectations, a new record will be set. The present record of about 30,000 was set more than twenty years ago at the championship match in the ball park of the Chicago White Sox between Frank Gotch, the American champion, and George Hackenschmidt, the European giant.

Gate receipts tonight are expected to total something like $125,000, a figure far in excess of the receipts of the Gotch-Hackenschmidt match. Jack Curley, who promoted that classic, also is promoting tonight's show, in conjunction with the milk fund.

With characteristic generosity, Curley, who nursed wrestling along at the Armories here when a crowd of 4,000 was a big one, is turning over the lion's share of the profits from the biggest out-door wrestling show of the season to the milk fund charity.

West Pittsburg Loses League Lead

Universal Sanitary Takes County Lead As Brent Beats West Pittsburg, 2-1

MINE SLAYER GETS SIX YEARS IN PRISON

BUTLER, Pa., June 29.—Samuel Muia, 40, convicted by a Butler county jury for the fatal shooting of Reginald Mercatello, 41, in the shanty of the latter in Annandale, a mining settlement 20 miles north of Butler, was sentenced by Judge J. O. Campbell to not less than six or more than 20 years in the Western penitentiary. There were no witnessess to the shooting, but Muia insisted he shot in self-defense after Mercatello had threatened him, following a quarrel over a financial deal. Mercatello, in an ante-mortem statement, told police officers that he had fired several shots after Muia after he had received the fatal bullet.

COCHRANTON MAN DIES AT AGE 81

Red Front Lights For Fire Apparatus

Amendment To New State Law Authorizes Them To Help Lower Accidents

Due to numerous serious accidents at night between fire apparatus and other motor vehicles in different parts of the state, an amendment has been made to the new state motor vehicle code signed last week by Governor Pinchot, authorizing all fire companies in Pennsylvania to carry red lights on the front of apparatus.

A decided decrease in accidents and fatalities can be expected from the new amendment, state authorities believe. Motorists who see a red light moving rapidly toward them at night, or notice a red bulk in their reflectors, will know that it is a sign of fire apparatus, as the new law permits no other vehicle to be outfitted with red lights.

In many cities fire departments have been using powerful red lamps on the front of their apparatus, so that approaching motorists who might be in closed cars and unable to hear warning sirens could tell that fire apparatus was approaching. This has now been legalized and will prove a great benefit to night drivers.

Every element has entered the latest New York murder mystery except the amateur detective who will unravel the whole case.—The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

Du Pont Protests Plans For Statue

Citizens Of Wilmington, Dela., Seek To Erect Statue Of Wealthy Magnate

(International News Service)

WILMINGTON, Del., June 29.—Pierre S. Dupont, who has spent millions of dollars in the modernization of school buildings here and in Pennsylvania, has voiced a vigorous protest against the erection in this city of a statue in his honor, it was learned today.

An anonymous donor contributed $50,000 for the statue and Chevalier Anthony Belo, of Astoria, Long Island, was commissioned to do the work.

In a letter to Elis Cenci, the sculptor's secretary, Dupont asserted: "The project does not have my consent or approval and I shall oppose its carrying out in every way possible."

National Miners Are Aggressive; Plan For March

Despite Peace Moves By United Miners, National Union Still Active

COURT ORDER IS DISREGARDED

Sixty 'Outside Miners' Have Been Imported In West Virginia Strike

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 29.—Coincident with authenticated reports that contracts for union operation of two mines had been signed by leaders of the United Mine Workers of America it was learned today that National Miners Union leaders planned another march on the Wildwood mine of the Butler Consolidated Coal Company where one man was killed and 12 others hurt a week ago.

The Panhandle Coal Company at Midway and the Miller's Run Coal Company at Treveskyn, both owned by P. B. Ollet and employing about 120 men, signed union contracts. This boosted the numbers of miners returning to their posts, contracts having been obtained with the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, affecting 2,400 men and the Creighton Fuel Company, employing 125.

Peace Is Sought

P. T. Fagan, local district president of the U. M. W. A. said organization efforts would be continued by the union with a view to obtaining an amicable settlement throughout the soft coal field.

The central rank and file strike committee of the N. M. U. declared that the march on the Wildwood Mine would be held this afternoon despite an injunction against it. The committee held that the miners do not recognize the right of the court to prohibit picketing.

Miners Imported

Moundsville, W. Va., June 29. — Sixty "outside" miners, brought here to work in the Glendale Gas Coal Company's mine where a United Mine Workers' strike has been declared, were to enter the operation for the first time today, according to police.

The imported men have been billeted in barracks since their arrival Friday.

CART BEFORE THE HORSE

The physical culture experts was giving his new pupils his first lesson.

"All these exercises," he commenced, "must be taken in front of the open window."

"That makes it rather awkward," put in the pupil.

"Why so?" asked the expert.

"Well, I need the increased strength first so that I can open the window in my new house."

NOT REALLY?

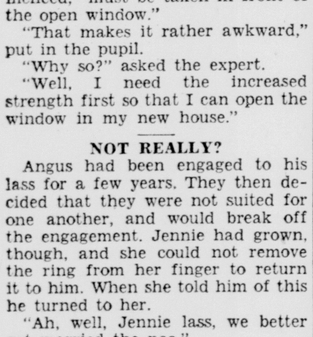

Angus had been engaged to his lass for a few years. They then decided that they were not suited for one another, and would break off the engagement. Jennie had grown, though, and she could not remove the ring from her finger to return it to him. When she told him of this he turned to her.

"Ah, well, Jennie lass, we better get married the noo."

Fact, Not Theory, Basis Of Christian Faith, Pastor Says

Dr. W. E. McClure, At First Presbyterian, Defends Its Foundation

Preaching two very logical and convincing sermons yesterday on "Christian Assurance" and "What is Christian Faith?", Dr. Walter E. McClure, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, displayed proof that Christianity is based on fact and not theory.

The two messages were convincing for any non-Christian or any Christian who seeks the truth of the Christian faith.

He showed that the Christian's belief is based on well-established foundations—events in history of which any person can be informed. His discourse led up to the proven fact of Jesus Christ's life and instructions, and he said that by following such teachings, individuals of today and the nations they compose, insure forever their happiness and safety both here and hereafter.

Fresh Tetanus Antitoxin Is Sent To County

Will Be Available For Prevention Of Tetanus In Fourth Of July Accidents

In order to guard against tetanus infection in connection with powder wounds on the Fourth of July, the State Departent of Health, has seen to it that a fresh supply of tetanus antitoxin has been placed in the hands of four distributors in Lawrence County.

Dr. Theodore Appel, State Secretary of Health, states that tetanus is a definitely preventable disease. Physicians know that every blank cartridge wound, and every dirty punctured and contused wound should be immediately opened, cleansed, and the patient administered a preventive dose of antitoxin.

The difficulty is, Dr. Appel states, that many persons who receive blank cartridge wounds, or other injuries of this type, do not fully realize the possible danger involved. They consequently attempt to treat these wounds themselves, and not infrequently become victims of tetanus, or lockjaw, simply because they do not put immediately themselves in the hands of a physician who would render the very essential anti-tetanus treatment.

For the benefit of physicians, the State Department of Health has listed the following stations in Lawrence County, which have been supplied with fresh tetanus antitoxin.

New Castle, McKinley and Frantz; Ellwood City, Johnston's Drug Store; A. L. Sweitzer's; Enon Valley, Dr. E. D. Jackson.

There's really no reason for a parson to grow excited because folk seek to hang him in his own church. All he has to do is to keep his feet firmly on the ground.—The New Orleans Times-Picayune.
